GRUMBLINGS SUBSIDE AS LEADERS ACCEPT MRS. LONG'S APPOINTMENT

BONUS INFLATION DRIVE IS BEGUN BY STRONG BLOC

Powerful House Group Favors Expansion Rather Than
New Taxes

SIMILAR PLAN STARTED TO FINANCE FARM PROGRAM

Solons Urge Use Of 'New Money Backed By Credit
Of Government'

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(AP)—A determined offensive seeking bonus payment through currency expansion rather than new taxes sprang today from a meeting of a powerful house inflation bloc.

Lines also were consolidated and widened in a similar campaign to meet the costs of a new farm-aid program with the same device.

Half a hundred representatives—both Democrats and Republicans—approved a resolution opposing "additional taxes to pay the debt to the veteran" and urged the use of "new money backed by the credit of this government and its metallic reserves."

They voted to set up a special steering committee to fight for that objective. Senator Thomas, Democrat, Oklahoma, simultaneously promised to start a similar move in the senate "to block all tax legislation and the issuance of any more interest-bearing bonds until the treasury has issued currency against the idle gold and silver."

Linked closely with the bi-partisan drive shaping up at both ends of the capitol was the question of printing more currency to finance the administration's program to substitute a soil conservation and subsidy plan for the defunct AAA. President Roosevelt has suggested $500,000,000 in new taxes replacing the invalidated processing taxes, for that purpose.

Today's meeting did not touch definitely on that angle, but the resolution, offered by Representative Greenwood, Republican, Indiana, was regarded in some quarters as broad enough to cover it. The resolution said:

"We favor a sound but adequate currency to be preserved at all hazards. We desire controlled expansion of the currency, sufficient to meet the needs of the people and the country, and are uniformly opposed to uncontrolled expansion."

Both senate and house leaders indicated the administration would continue its opposition to currency inflation and expressed confidence that they could beat down the renewed demand for it. Dismayed with their position, however, the members of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States against uncontrolled inflation.

The chamber, however, struck primarily at the administration's present fiscal policy as leading to the equivalent of currency inflation.

SCARBOROUGH QUILTS SENATORIAL FIGHT IN 28TH DISTRICT

RUSTON, La., Feb. 1.—(Special)—Truitt L. Scarborough, Ruston attorney, tonight announced his withdrawal from the senatorial race in the 28th Louisiana district.

Scarborough's withdrawal leaves R. W. Rhodes of Farmerville, unopposed in the second primary to be held March 3.

Leo F. Terzia, who was reelected from this district in the first primary, and Rhodes will represent the district in Baton Rouge for the next four years.

The 28th district is composed of Union, Lincoln, Morehouse and West Carroll parishes.

PAVING OF ALTO ROAD WILL BE BEGUN MONDAY

Concrete paving of six miles of paving from LaFourche swamp to Alto will begin Monday morning, it was announced Saturday by Wayne Hucks, state engineer in charge of the work. During construction the highway will be closed to traffic. Motorists going to Alto from Monroe will use the Dixie Overland highway to start, then go south over route No. 208. The route to Winnsboro will be over the Dixie Overland to Rayville, thence south on route No. 47.

It is expected that six months will be required to complete the paving to Alto. Paving of the road from Alto to Archibald will probably be undertaken on completion of the present project.

481 MOTORISTS ARRESTED

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 1.—(AP)—This week's drive by the police on enforcement of the traffic laws in New Orleans netted the arrests of 481 motorists, the police reported. In disposal of cases already tried 23 law violators were given the choice of paying fines or going to jail. They were tried before Recorder Albert T. Thompson.

SPANISH KING AND WIFE MAY SOON BE RE-UNITED

PARIS, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Spanish royalists said today they believed former King Alfonso of Spain and his estranged wife, the former Queen Victoria, would soon be re-united because of the birth of a grandchild. After long refusing to see her exiled husband, former Queen Victoria has consented to talk with him when she goes to Rome to be with their daughter, the Infanta Beatrice, Princess Torlonia, who is expecting a child shortly.

The former king, who lives in Rome, is reported anxious to arrange a reconciliation in order to strengthen his prestige with Spanish monarchists.

POLICE GUARDING SON OF GOVERNOR

Massachusetts Executive Receives Letter Threatening Kidnap

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(AP)—A threat to kidnap the son of Governor Curley of Massachusetts today had both postoffice inspectors and the justice department's "G" men in action.

The threat, typed, unsigned and mailed from a Back Bay postal station in Boston, simply told the governor:

"Your son Francis will be kidnaped within a week."

The governor, in Washington en route to Florida from Boston, said the note was given to him just before he boarded the train for his trip south.

Police were assigned to guard the 12-year-old son of the governor and the executive said "so far, nothing has happened."

J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the justice department's bureau of investigation, refused to talk about the matter.

Postoffice inspectors said if the letter was turned over to them they probably would refer it to Hoover's men in Boston.

Meanwhile, word came that the boy had been guarded for a week in Plymouth, Massachusetts. The Boston American said the governor had turned the threat over to the police commissioner and that Curley had received several such missives during the last year. The American said the boy had been placed in the care of Dr. Martin English, Curley's family physician.

The governor was reluctant to discuss the matter, explaining "publicity of this kind might give other people ideas."

STIFFENING OF BAN ON SHIPMENTS FOR ITALY RECOMMENDED

GENEVA, Feb. 1.—(AP)—A stiffening of the "buy nothing from Italy" league boycott was recommended tonight by a committee of sanctions experts.

Under this sanction goods manufactured in Italy and exported to a non-sanctionist country (for example Austria or Hungary) can be re-exported to sanctionist countries, provided their cost has been increased in the non-sanctionist land by 25 per cent.

The committee voted this percentage should be raised to 50 per cent, and some experts recommended even 75 per cent. A considerable quantity of Italian goods, the committee said, is slipping into sanctionist countries by evasion of the existing 25 per cent stipulation.

ENGINEER IS SENTENCED IN BREMER KIDNAP CASE

ST. PAUL, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Classus W. McDonald, Detroit, Mich., engineer, convicted as a conspirator in the $200,000 kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul banker, today was sentenced to serve 15 years in Leavenworth prison.

McDonald, who was charged with exchanging approximately one-half of the ransom money in Cuba, was sentenced in federal court by Judge Gunnar H. Nordby, before whom the engineer was tried with two others—Harry Sawyer and William Weaver—and convicted January 24. The other two were given life terms the day of their conviction.

BOY IS RESCUED FROM UNDERGROUND CHANNEL

PASADENA, Calif., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Fred Cass, 10, was rescued from a storm drain today after being swept underground for two miles.

The youth lost his balance while playing on the banks of the drain near his home, and pitched in. The swift current, fed by a 24-hour rain, carried him into an underground channel across the city. His screams as he reached an open stretch brought Joseph Peck, who waded in and saved him.

The boy lost consciousness after being rescued but his injuries were confined to scratches and bruises.

ISLAND RESIDENTS MAROONED BY ICE REPORT ITALIAN ARMY WIPED OUT

Dirigible Will Attempt To Take Food To 1,500
Persons

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(AP)—An effort to take food to ice-bound Tangier Island on a small privately owned dirigible was planned tonight after a survey had shown it impossible to land a plane close by.

Fifteen hundred residents have been marooned by recent cold weather, with reports today that food supplies were dangerously near the level of emergency rations.

Plans to send supplies by army bombers failed when General Main Craig reported a survey flight showed that ships of such weight could not land on the surrounding ice.

Representative Bland, Democrat, Virginia, said as much food as possible would be sent to the island on the dirigible weather permitting. Operators of the ship thought it could

MINNESOTA LAUNCHES ROOSEVELT DRIVE IN NATION'S FARM BELT

MANKATO, Minn., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Minnesota opened the farm belt's Democratic drive for renomination of President Roosevelt today when Democrats assembled in state convention elected national convention delegates pledged to the president. Convention officials said some 2,000 attended the meeting.

Congressman Elmer J. Ryan, chairman, pleaded for support for Roosevelt and replied to Al Smith's Liberty League speech. Then the convention promptly named 26 delegates representing 22 votes for Roosevelt, at the Philadelphia national convention in June.

The Minnesota delegation faced opposition within its own state. Another faction of the state Democratic party, headed by National Committee-man Joseph Wolf, has called a separate convention for March 14.

WELFARE DIRECTOR HOLDS

Prisoner Declares Merit Alone

Privileges

JOLIET, Ill., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Life-Term Nathan Leopold, Jr., denied today to the head of the Illinois penal system that he was withholding any information which could throw light on the prison slaying of his crime partner, Richard Loeb.

Interviewed by A. L. Bowen, director of the state department of public welfare, the co-slayer of Bobby Franks was quoted as volunteering the statement:

"I don't know anything about the murder or the facts that led up to it. I tell you that on my word of honor."

Bowen's questioning of Leopold—in which the "thrill slayer" also took occasion to defend himself and his slain college mate and confederate from the epithet of "penitentiary pets"—was followed by the state official's announcement that an impartial commission would make a separate investigation of conditions into Stateville prison. It was there that Loeb was virtually slashed to pieces Tuesday by a fellow inmate, James Day.

Gov. Henry Horner has already approved the new inquiry. Bowen said he intimated that Warden Lewis E.

20,000 Bales Weekly

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Liquidation of the government's large cotton holdings at a rate not to exceed 20,000 bales a week through a sales agent appointed by the president was proposed today by southern senators.

Chairman Smith, Democrat, South Carolina, of the senate agriculture committee, said the plan would be incorporated in a senate resolution to be introduced Monday, which had the support of a "vast majority" of the cotton trade as well as of senators from cotton states.

Under the weekly sales policy, Smith said the agent would dispose

NEW JERSEY POLICE LOOK TO GOVERNOR FOR NEW EVIDENCE

TRENTON, N. J., Feb. 1.—(AP)—The New Jersey state police, doubling back on old investigations for answers to Governor Harold G. Hoffman's "doubts" that the Lindbergh kidnapping case was a one-man job, looked to the governor today to supply any new leads involving others.

The governor, who thus far has not disclosed whether he has any new evidence in his possession, will confer early next week with Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, the state police chief, whom he told there is "abundant evidence that other persons participated in the crime."

MISSISSIPPI TOWN HIT BY SUB-ZERO WEATHER

WEST POINT, Miss., Feb. 1.—(AP)—West Pointers continued to shiver this morning in the coldest blast that has hit this section in over 36 years as the mercury continued hovering at the one degree below zero mark. This was the second straight day that sub-zero temperature was reported here, according to T. F. Akers, in charge of the U. S. experimental station, east of the city.

RULING ON POWER PLAN IS LOOMING

Decision Seen As One Of Court's First Acts In Second Half Of Term

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(AP)—The supreme court will enter the second half of its term Monday with a decision on the constitutionality of the New Deal's power program one of its first likely pronouncements.

This verdict, in a case challenging the Tennessee Valley Authority's right to compete with private utilities in the sale of surplus power, generally, had been expected January 20. When it was not forthcoming, there was immediate speculation whether the breach in viewpoint among the nine justices which was emphasized in invalidation of the Roosevelt farm program had not widened.

Other New Deal cases this term have been decided from 20 to 34 days after argument. Forty-six days was debated.

The justices held their usual Saturday afternoon conference today, but there was nothing to indicate outwardly whether the TVA issue had been settled—or even discussed at the meeting.

Since January 20—the last "decision day"—the members of the high tribunal have had two weeks of recess in which to ponder cases and prepare opinions.

The TVA ruling may have potential far-reaching consequences to both the power industry and consumers. Its reverberations also may influence—in one direction or another—the drive of some members of congress for constitutional amendment or limiting the court's powers.

SAYS FAILURE TO OBSERVE SIGNAL CAUSED COLLISION

CINCINNATI, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Wilbur R. Kellogg, manager of the Cincinnati Terminal company, asserted tonight failure to observe a signal caused the collision of two fast passenger trains in which 40 persons were injured late last night.

He said it had not determined which train failed to observe a signal.

Investigators expect to fix the responsibility next week, he said.

The Chesapeake and Ohio and the Louisville and Nashville railroad companies, which operated the trains, are taking part in an inquiry.

New Governor Demands Complete Reorganization Of WPA In State

Wires Hopkins In Move To Oust James Crutcher

Declares Peterman's Successor Is Unfit To Handle Relief Funds

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Like an explosion the battle between the late Senator Huey P. Long and the federal government over the administration of federal relief funds in Louisiana, waged anew today with a demand from Governor James A. Noe for a complete reorganization of the Works Progress administration in this state.

Charging politicalization of relief funds, Noe wired to Harry Hopkins, federal administrator in Washington, a demand that he remove James H. Crutcher as acting administrator of the WPA in Louisiana, succeeding Frank H. Peterman, whose resignation, effective March 1, was announced last night by Hopkins.

Peterman declared that he was resigning the position in order to resume his private practice of law at Alexandria. At the time of his appointment to the federal position Peterman was an anti-Long member of the state senate, but the Long legislative majority promptly declared his seat vacant and a Long man was seated in his place.

Governor Noe charged in his telegram to Hopkins that Crutcher was unfit to fill the position because of his services under Peterman, and asked for a reorganization of the WPA "to completely divorce it from politics and to insure the maximum benefits to the people for whom these funds were intended."

Another boy was severely injured by the flying pieces of stone and several negroes received minor injuries.

William Reagan, 11, son of the mill operator, Walter S. Reagan, was struck by pieces of stone which tore open his head. The lad's father picked him up and ran to his home nearby.

HIS ARMY BROKEN BY ITALIAN DRIVE

The crushing advance of General Graziani's "Hell on Wheels" army, motorized battalions, which carried the invaders almost half way from Dolo to Ethiopia's capital, Addis Ababa, was reported to have broken the backbone of the army of Ras Desta Dintu, left, Emperor Haile Selassie's son-in-law and southern commander. The map shows how two Italian columns are advancing from the south: one having reached Wadara after sweeping through Noghelli, Ras Desta Dintu's concentration point and the only place for which he had a real affection; and the other pushing westward along Kenya. Conquered territory remained a "No Man's Land" as trapped Ethiopians tried to fight their way back to their lines.

DOROTHY DIX TO BE HONOR GUEST

Woman Columnist To Speak Before L. S. U. Journalism Students

BATON ROUGE, La., Feb. 1.—(Special)—Dorothy Dix, columnist to perplexed, bewildered men and women, will be the guest of honor and principal speaker at the Matrix table of the Louisiana State university chapter of Theta Sigma Phi, women's professional journalism fraternity, on February 13.

Miss Dix, in private life Mrs. Elizabeth Meriwether Gilmer, is a veteran newspaper woman, and on May 6 will complete 40 continuous years of publishing her column. Judging from the number of letters she receives, Miss Dix must have advised literally millions. In an interview with three Theta Sigma Phi recently she told how for 20 years, beginning in 1901, she was a court reporter, going all over the country to cover famous trials, including those of Thaw, Patrick, Ruth Wheeler and Nan Patterson.

When asked if she found her sex a handicap in getting the story behind a story, a time when women reporters were less common than now, she replied, "on the contrary, it was often an advantage." Miss Dix in the same interview attributed the lasting popularity of her column to the fact that she writes "like a woman, not as the editors say of the women reporters of today," as if they had hair on their chests.

6 ORPHANAGE CHILDREN OVERCOME BY COAL GAS

BALTIMORE, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Loosened mortar in an orphan asylum chimney was said by firemen today to have caused an escape of coal gas which overcame six children and affected 28 others.

Florence Bandholtz, a matron at the United Patriotic Orphans' home here, also was made ill by the fumes. The gas was not discovered until one four-year-old child collapsed in the play room of the institution last night. Suddenly, another collapsed, and within a few minutes six of the children were unconscious.

Many scientists firmly believe that a trip to the moon by rocket is a not far distant accomplishment of man.

HELP TO DISMISSED TEACHERS PLEDGED

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Financial and legal assistance was pledged today by the Progressive Education association to teachers who may be dismissed because of their political, economic or social beliefs.

The association promised the aid through its newly formed commission on educational freedom.

"Duty to country and professional honor demand that we fight to preserve our freedom of teaching and to protect our fellows against persecution," said Dr. William H. Kilpatrick, professor of education at Teachers college, Columbia university, and an honorary vice president of the association.

"In the new commission we have a powerful instrument for this service. The years just ahead will challenge American education beyond anything hitherto known. We who teach must help the rising generation to get higher standards of thinking. To this end we must be free to present, to investigate and to criticize any position in regard to the social order."

The Georgians said they reported that if Governor Eugene Talmadge, who is national committeeman, declines to call a primary they will proceed to send a delegation instructed for Roosevelt to the convention by other means.

"The people of Georgia are not going to be disfranchised," Russell said. George said the entire congressional delegation will support Mr. Roosevelt.

Congressman Riley J. Wilson, entering the campaign for the Second Primary makes the following statement:

First, I extend my sincere thanks and appreciation to all who voted for me in the Primary election on January 21, and also to the many friends who rendered valuable assistance on my behalf.

Second, I entertain only feelings of kindness and friendship for those who voted for and supported my opponents. I am glad that I conducted my campaign in such a manner as to be in a position to solicit and expect support from those who did not vote for me in the First Primary.

Entering the campaign for the Second Primary to be held March 3rd, I appeal to all voters and citizens of the Fifth Congressional District to join in a constructive program for the best interest of our people in Louisiana and at Washington. We have many problems of supreme importance to our District and State now under way and in prospect that vitally affect labor, agriculture, and industry. My record of service is before you. My advancement and standing in the Congress is due to this record and your continued support and confidence.

I therefore appeal to you the people of the Fifth Congressional District for a fair, impartial, and earnest consideration of your own interests in using your influence and casting your votes on March 3rd. My pledge to you is continued direct service to all in the future as in the past.

THREE CHILDREN FATALLY BURNED

Die In Flames As Mother Attempts To Enter Blazing House

JASPER, Ala., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Three small children were burned to death in their home near here today as their frantic mother battled furiously with neighbors who prevented her from rushing to doom in the blazing house.

The children were Betty Lou, 4, Horace Mitchell, 3, and Elmer E., six months, sons and daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer E. Kimbrell, who live at the edge of town.

The charred bodies of the two younger children were found in the blackened and heat twisted crib where the mother had left them half an hour before, the eldest child's body was found beneath a bed.

Mrs. Kimbrell had gone to the home of her father-in-law 100 feet away. The fire was discovered by Chester Jackson, cutting wood nearby, who gave the alarm.

Screaming in terror for her children, Mrs. Kimbrell dashed to her home, but a blast of flame from the front door checked her and Jackson forcibly restrained her from entering.

Kimbrell said he believed the elder child's clothing caught from an overturned coal stove and in terror she ran to the bed where her brothers slept, igniting the bed clothing and the house.

ALABAMA LEGISLATORS TO HOLD SPECIAL MEET

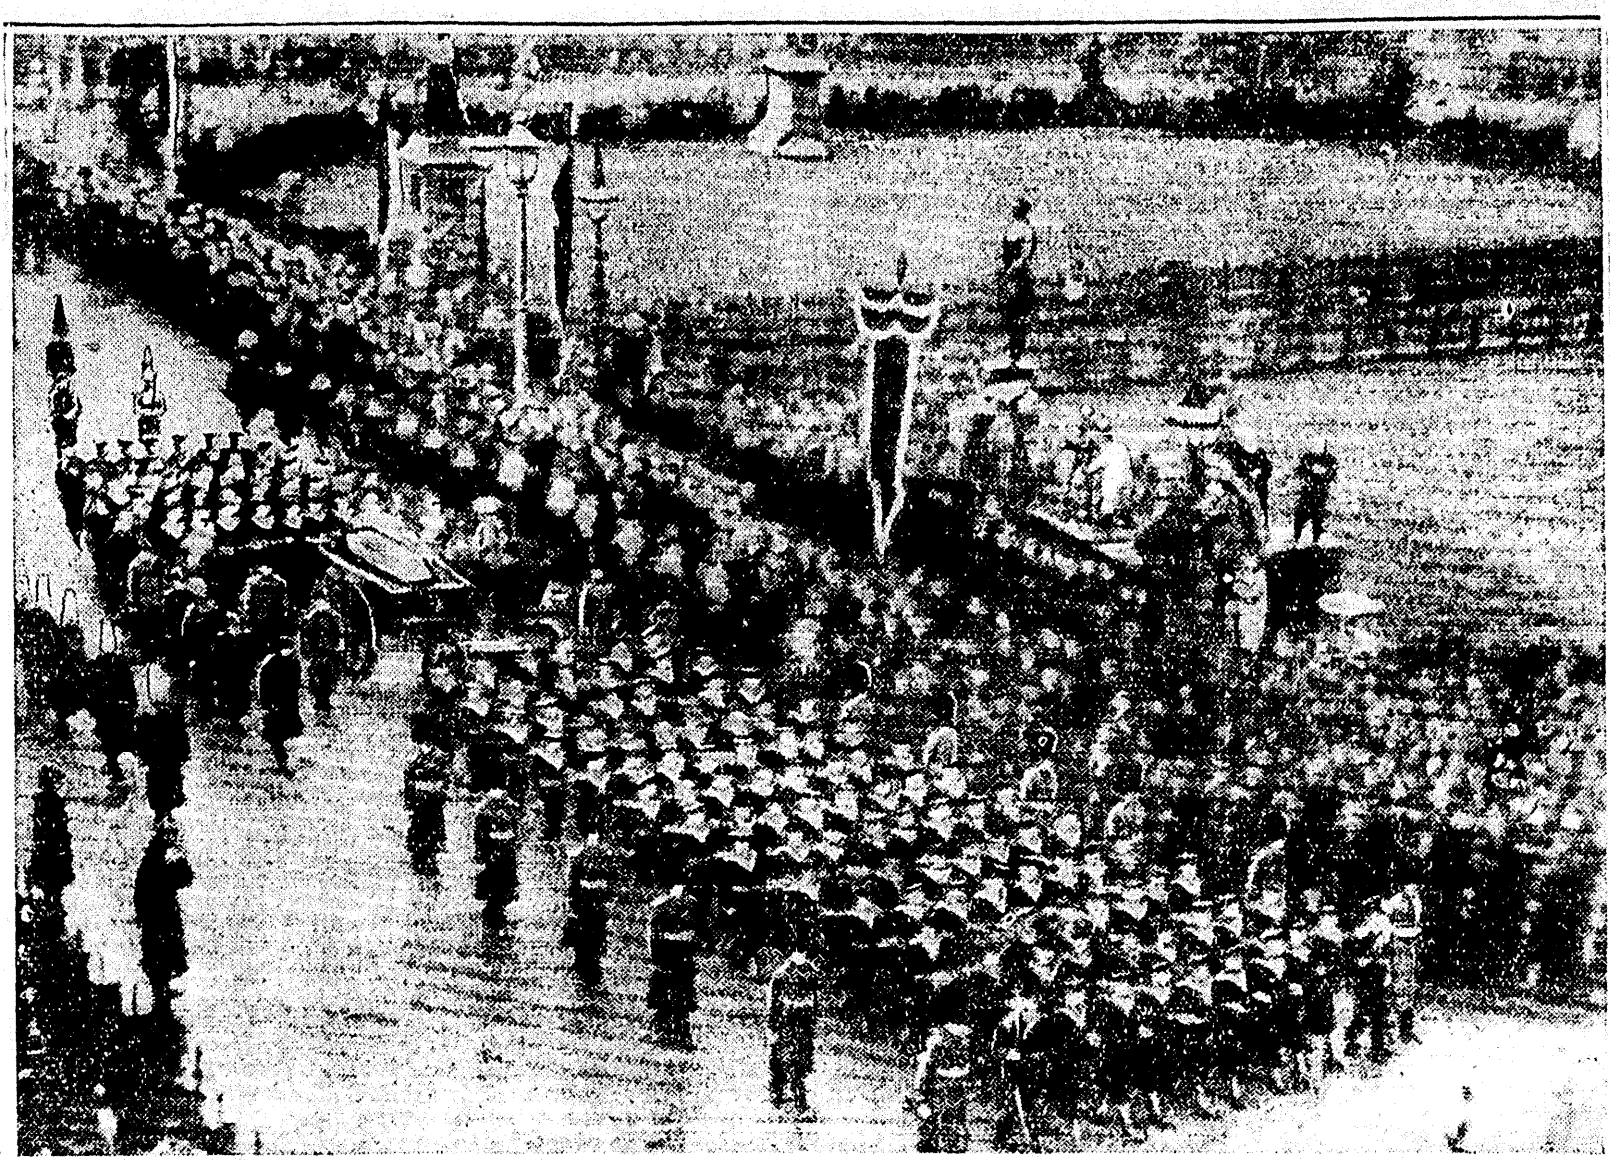

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Gov. Bibb Graves today officially notified Alabama legislators they would meet in special session on February 11 at 10 a.m., to consider "revenue" and lower priced automobile tags.

The governor's official notification was included in letters mailed to the legislators, who were informed that the official call would be sent them later. The governor said it would not mention any specific taxes for the "revenues."

Calling newspaper men into his office, the governor read aloud the following letter addressed to all members of the legislature:

"This is to advise you that I, as

SORROWING CROWDS BOW AS BELOVED SOVEREIGN IS CARRIED TO FINAL REST

The solemn spectacle of King George V's funeral cortege moving through crowded London streets is portrayed in this NEA radiophoto. Lamp posts are draped with mourning, and bareheaded crowds jam every vantage point as a company of sailors pull the gun carriage on which the coffin rests. So great was the crush of people along the line of the funeral route despite a drizzling rain that burial services at Windsor were nearly an hour late.

GINNINGS INCREASE

The report of the department of commerce, bureau of the census, showed that in Morehouse parish there were 18,226 bales of cotton ginned from the cotton crop of 1935 prior to January 16, 1936, as compared with 19,916 bales ginned to a similar date from the 1934 crop.

City Briefs

J. C. Russell, NYA director, reported Saturday that approximately 100 youths will be given immediate work along recreation lines in Monroe and West Monroe. They will be given work to supervise play and tennis courts and playgrounds will be constructed. In West Monroe the project is being sponsored by the Kiwanis club. Rev. E. E. Huntsberry, of the club, will head a committee that will devote efforts toward starting off the work there. Many vacant lots will be obtained for the purposes designated and baseball diamonds and tennis courts are to be laid out.

Mrs. Glyn Rogers, nurse associated with the Ouachita parish health unit, left Saturday night for New Orleans where she will pursue a special course at the maternity center for the next four weeks. Many other health nurses of the state will be enrolling similarly.

Motor truck owners and operators are filing applications for permits to operate in accordance with the new law passed which gives the interstate commerce commission jurisdiction over their operation. Many of the applications are being handled through the Monroe Traffic bureau, of which H. J. Fernandez is manager.

Within the next few days, the Chamber of Commerce of Monroe and West Monroe will hold a special meeting of the retail merchants' division to elect officers to act through the ensuing year. E. Jack Selig was president during the past year.

The Missouri Pacific Booster club will hold its February meeting in the Booster clubhouse, Ouachita avenue, Thursday night. The chief speaker of the occasion will be Fred Hudson, attorney for the railroad, who will take for the subject of his talk, "The Life of George Washington." Music will be furnished by the Ouachita parish glee club.

Much interest is being shown in the meeting of the Baptist missionary society to be held at the First Baptist church here on Thursday. Representatives will be present from many churches in north Louisiana, it is said, and fully 300 are expected to attend. One of the features of the meeting will be the addresses of Rev. Frank Tapp, former pastor of the church here and now pastor of a large Baptist church in St. Joseph, Mo., who is leader of the Baptist One Hundred Thousand club. Dr. Charles E. Maddy, of the Baptist foreign missionary board, of Richmond, Va., will be another prominent speaker.

The West Monroe city council will hold its February meeting in the city hall at 7 p.m. Monday.

A group of American Legion and Auxiliary officials left Monroe early Saturday to attend the officers' conference at Baton Rouge on Saturday and Sunday. Bill Perhamus, commander of L. B. Faulk post and C. E. Braun, post adjutant, headed the Lekionnaires from Monroe, while the auxiliary was represented by Mrs. M. H. Huckaby, president. Mrs. Charles M. Mitchell, chairman of child welfare work of the auxiliary, also was among those attending.

CONVICTS PIN FREEDOM HOPE ON BINDER'S ERROR

HUNTSVILLE, Texas, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Forty Texas convicts pinned their hope for freedom today on a book binder's error.

A move to test the validity of 150 laws omitted from the official copy of the state's criminal code was started by State Representative A. T. McKinney as attorney for a prisoner convicted under one of the lost laws.

Officials had anticipated the court test since omission of the articles was discovered Thursday. The missing laws include those dealing with the failure of public officials to perform duty, offenses against the public peace, three articles covering banking practices and offenses against morals and decency.

The 40 convicts are serving sentences under the laws which Representative McKinney alleged "in fact were never enacted."

All but the official copy of the criminal code contain the laws and officials said it apparently was an error in binding the one volume.

LEGS OF GIRL WALKING TO SCHOOL ARE FROZEN

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Louise Wolfe's legs were frozen because she didn't wish to mar her perfect school attendance record. She walked a mile and a half to her junior high school classes in sub zero temperatures. Physicians said today her condition was not serious.

RESCUERS' VIGIL KEPT OVER BODY

Party Climbs 13,000 Feet Up Mountain To Where Youth Perished

LONGMIRE, Mt. Rainier National Park, Wash., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Three exhausted, frost-bitten men kept vigil over the body of Delmar Fadden today while they waited for a relief party to reach them 9,000 feet up blizzard-swept Mt. Rainier.

After a perilous climb to the 13,000 level yesterday, a party of five men recovered the body of the 23-year-old Seattle youth who perished in an attempt to scale the peak alone in January—a feat never accomplished.

To beaten by fatigue and cold to continue the descent with the body after reaching Camp Curtis, the party sent two of its number to the base camp at Carbo to obtain help.

Wendell Trosper, summit guide, and Teal Galbraith made the trip to Carbo on skis in the darkness, while Ome Daiber, Chief Park Ranger John Davis and Ranger William Butler remained with the body.

Trosper and Galbraith told of coming down the mountain in a blizzard. Several times their lives were endangered. Three men were required to break the trail for the party.

They made plans to return immediately to Camp Curtis. A. W. Hand, former Mt. Rainier guide, and Ken Sverson, Paradise ski instructor having volunteered to accompany them on the 12-mile climb.

MASSEUR MARCHED WITH ROYALTY, PAPER STATES

LONDON, Feb. 1.—(AP)—The communist newspaper Daily Worker said today King Carol's masseur became entangled in the funeral procession for King George V of England, and marched through the streets, wearing working clothes, a white sweater and a felt hat.

The newspaper said the masseur, described as an Austrian named Stoebis, arrived with the king of Rumania, became bewildered when he was surrounded by admirals and generals, and found himself marching in their ranks.

Other British newspapers published photographs in which the unconventional mourner was variously described as a "Rumanian officer" and a "representative of Transylvania."

VANDERBILT HOME BELONGINGS SOLD

Auction Disposes Of Effects From Residence Of Heiress' Mother

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Household belongings of Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt held the spotlight in an auction sale today.

A collection of 82 carved elephants offered anonymously dominated preliminary bidding. They brought $3,387 in comparison with $3,069 derived from sale of 71 assorted articles from the deserted Vanderbilt mansion at 49 East 12nd street.

The Vanderbilt offerings, aftermath of her domestic difficulties and loss of principal custody of her 10-year-old daughter, Gloria, included an elaborate bedroom suite, carved lacquered sofas and chairs, a bronze bust of the late Reginald C. Vanderbilt by the American sculptor Joe Davidson, and many trophies for successful Vanderbilt entries in horse shows.

Mrs. Vanderbilt moved to a small apartment after her recent renunciation of claims to share in the Vanderbilt fortune.

Week-ends she entertains her daughter, whose wealth was estimated recently at $3,667,000, at a midtown hotel.

DRESS REHEARSAL OF PLAY IS HELD

A dress rehearsal was given Saturday night for the play, "The Trial of Mary Dugan," which will be presented Tuesday and Wednesday nights at 8 p.m., in the courtroom of the Quachita parish courthouse by the Monroe Little theater.

The presentation of the play is decidedly unique, as it will be staged in a real courtroom. The players have been carefully drilled by Jackson Purdy, who declares that there is an unusual degree of excellent talent in the cast. The selection of the play, too, is one that is said to meet with much approval, as it is one that had a long run in New York and other large cities.

It will be the second major production of the Little Theater here this season. Tickets can be obtained from members of the cast or at the door at the time of the presentation of the play.

70-GUN SALUTE ECHOES BRITAIN'S SORROW

Firing at one-minute intervals, the naval and military forces of Britain throughout the world paid tribute to the dead King George in a 70-gun salute, one shot for each year of his life. This ritual was observed even in the shadow of famed London Tower.

ROMANTIC APRIL FEELING ATTRIBUTED TO SPINACH

SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 1.—(AP)—The romantic feeling that just will bubble up around April too often is attributed to spring—but spinach really is the reason why. Also fresh fruits and vegetables. Take the word of Dr. Ralph H. Gundlach.

"In pre-can opener days," the University of Washington psychologist was quoted in the campus newspaper today, "the average winter diet was deficient in fruits and vegetables. With the coming of spring and garden foods, people felt better and attributed it to the weather."

"But it was really nothing more romantic than a change of diet."

MARDI GRAS TRADITION SLATED TO BE BROKEN

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Jolly old Rex, king of Mardi Gras, lord of revelry, etc.—must be getting old. He's eliminated one of the traditional practices of carnival.

The masked monarch of joy, who annually rules over the famous New Orleans festival, has made a practice in the past of gathering his court about him at his gala ball for a journey across the city to the ball of Comus.

Tradition will be broken this year.

TWO MEN FOUND DEAD IN OFFICE

Murder And Suicide Apparently Bring Death To Two Executives

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Two men, identified as J. H. Loevenhart, 67, and H. P. Grossman, 47, president and vice-president of the Traders Investment company, were found shot to death today in the company's office on the 13th floor of the First National bank building.

Policeman Frank Sadeck said it was apparently a murder and suicide. He added that the two were heard in loud argument just before the shots. Sadeck said he found a pistol by Loevenhart's hand. Loevenhart had been shot in the head, Grossman under the heart, both wounds instantly fatal.

Both men were married. Loevenhart left two children, Grossman one. The latter was a brother of Joseph F. Grossman, assistant corporation counsel of Chicago. An attorney himself, Grossman also used the rooms as a law office.

however, for both balls will be held in separate sections of the city auditorium. It will be only a matter of corridors and a few doors for Rex to join King Comus.

GOVERNOR JOHNSTON ASSAILS TALMADGE AS PARTY TRAITOR

COLUMBIA, S. C., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Governor Olin D. Johnston of South Carolina turned upon his neighbor, Governor Eugene Talmadge of Georgia, today with an assertion that Talmadge and Alfred E. Smith were "the two biggest traitors in the history of the Democratic party."

The governor issued a statement commenting that Talmadge's "grass root" convention "didn't amount to a thing" and saying that "Smith is the worst of the two. He's just nursing a grudge."

Johnston ascribed the twin movement to a desire to "benefit the few and not the masses."

"I hate to see people in high ranks of southern leadership, knifing the back of the party which has meant so much to the south," he said.

LEADERS ACCEPT MRS. HUEY LONG

until the April election might be questioned. However, the way seemed smoothed tonight for her election by the committee and it is a reasonably safe bet that Mrs. Long will be the next senator from Louisiana.

The politics behind the situation was as surprising and tumultuous as in the days of Huey himself. When Long died several politicians clamored for his place, which fell to Allen. When Allen died before he could reach the senate, many came forward and demanded the office. The situation placed the machine leaders in a tough spot. They considered selecting Mrs. O. K. Allen as a compromise and it was said she would accept it. But some of the leaders believing that it would be a good gesture and that she would turn down the appointment, pressed for the selection of Mrs. Long. They thought that in turning down the appointment, Mrs. Long might endorse one of them.

But Mrs. Long fooled them. She accepted the appointment and has let it be known that she will accept nomination by the state central committee. She likes the idea of being a senator and the lady is determined to go to Washington and show the world that Huey Long's widow knows her politics.

Her acceptance dropped into camp with explosive effect. The leaders began running around in circles in Indian dance. Surely this lady, always regarded by them as a docile housewife, couldn't be serious about it, they thought. But she was serious and they had to accept her. They could not afford to buck the name of Huey Long and especially his widow. After they got over their excitement, the leaders began working to make her selection stick.

And Governor James A. Noe is tickled to death and Allen Ellender is sore as a boil. Noe remembers the time he was booted off the ticket at the opening of the fall campaign after he had announced for governor and he blamed Ellender for part of it. Noe, who became governor from the lieutenant-governorship at the death of Allen, will be governor until next May when the Richard W. Leche administration takes office. He has some of the leaders shaking in their boots and they probably will shake until he goes out, as the governor of Louisiana under the Huey Long dictatorial laws is a powerful individual.

FORMER MAYOR DIES AT GREENVILLE, MISS.

GREENVILLE, Miss., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Eugene Gatewood Hann, 65, former mayor of Greenville and for 34 years leader in business and civic affairs here, died tonight at his home here after an illness of a year.

A native of Atlanta, Ga., he came to this city and entered furniture business. He aided in organization and served as president of Delta Fall Fair here 25 years ago. He was active in Masonic circles.

DEPUTY IS HELD AFTER KENTUCKY MAN IS SLAIN

INEZ, Ky., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Deputy Constable Pete Kirk was held without bond here today following the slaying of Ellsworth Fannin, 52, who was shot to death yesterday. Justice of the Peace Douglas Moore said Fannin was shot when he advanced on the officer with a coal pick.

THEATER PATRONS GIVEN REAL SHOW

Firemen Have Embarrassing Job Of Rescuing Undressed Chorus Girls

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Early evening theater goers in the Times Square district were treated to a free show tonight including embarrassed firemen saving slightly undressed chorus girls.

A 42nd street hotel hard by the white way caught fire and the occupants, mostly theatrical persons, responded with certain calls that delighted vaudeville lovers and dismayed police and firemen.

It was only a one-alarm blaze, but before the rescued, rescued and bystanders could be sorted out three extra engines and half a hundred extra policemen were thrown into the chaos to restore order and prosperity.

The best billing was obtained by Madam Bonita, an animal trainer, who was willing to give her all for her trained lion, Nero, who is two years old and lived in the basement of the hotel.

Rescued herself, Madam Bonita ran screaming toward the basement to save Nero. She had a taxi driver in tow and frantically told restraining firemen that all she wanted to do was to get Nero into a taxi and take him away from the awful place.

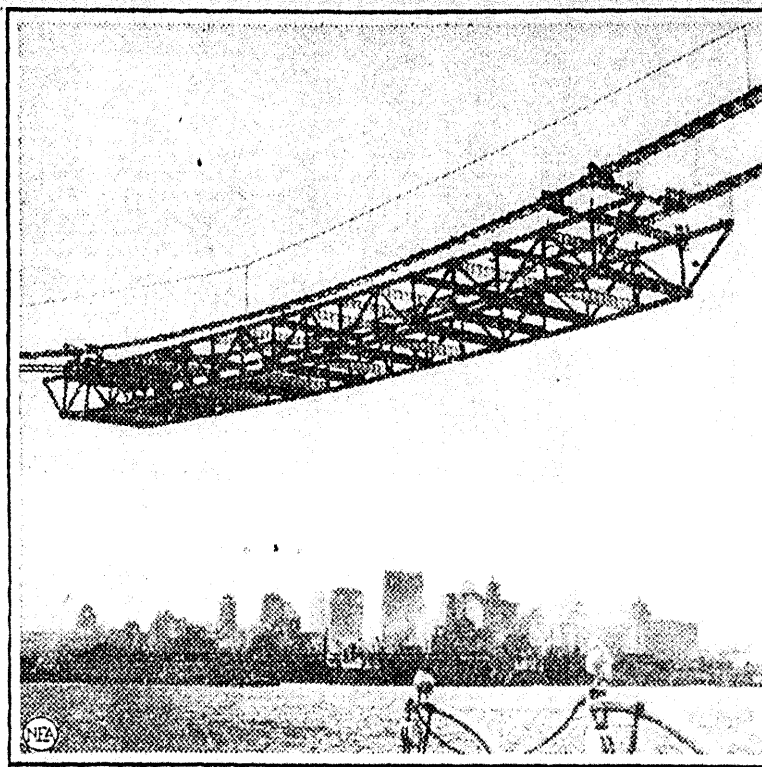

Hearing this, the taxi driver departed quickly, and the firemen decided Madam Bonita had better use the discretion part of valor and let Nero sulk in the basement, even if there was a good deal of smoke and water.

Madam Bonita retired to be soled by a group of circus freaks. Next came two night club entertainers, Mary Barton, and her sister, Mrs. Ray Thompson, who had been napping.

Flustered policemen bumbled them in department overcoats and found them sanctuary in a flea circus emporium next door. Their jewelry, the young women said, was what really mattered, not the cold.

Corn sugar, which is called glucose, is not sweet. It is used on the backs of postage stamps.

SOMETHING NEW IN THE AIR

More than 200 feet above the water, here is a 540-foot section of the decks of the San Francisco-Oakland Bay bridge, the tiny figures of workers giving a vivid idea of its immensity. The first span ever known to be hung out in the middle of suspension cables, it was hoisted in nine parts to the steel cable wires and there suspended from ropes looped over the main cables. Slack lines of hoisting cables are seen in the picture, the upper horizontal beam of the truss marking the level of the upper deck and the lower horizontal the lower deck.

SCOTLAND YARD ASKED TO PROTECT PROMOTER

LONDON, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Keith Williams, wealthy promoter, appealed to Scotland Yard today for protection, asserting he and his 15-year-old daughter had been threatened with kidnapping.

He said a man had telephoned that "You and your daughter will be bumped off," and that another threatened to beat him. One attempt was made to kidnap him outside his hotel last week, he asserted.

Williams was accompanied by a bodyguard yesterday when a law suit, in which he alleged he was cheated out of thousands of pounds at a fashionable Mayfair gambling party for charity, was dismissed.

Williams had claimed 10,000 pounds (about $24,000) against John Acrevor, who had organized a party for a dental aid fund, alleging breach of warranty and negligence. The case was stopped when the judge agreed to the contention of the defense that there was no case to answer, and that there could be no warranty at a gambling party that someone would not be cheated.

SOLONS TO TACKLE FINANCE PROBLEM

Mississippians To Return To Capital Monday After Week-End Recess

JACKSON, Miss., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Having cleared its calendar of the most important highway construction program Mississippi has ever attempted by passing a $40,000,000 road bill in rapid-fire order, the Mississippi legislature returns to the capital Monday after a week-end recess to tackle the ever-present bugaboo of state finances.

Mississippi's new Governor, whose successful efforts in steering the road bill to legislative enactment during his first ten days in office have elicited the praise and admiration of many Mississippians, is expected to delve into the state's fiscal affairs next week in his first message to the legislature since his inauguration.

The governor has not yet revealed his revenue program. But all observers agree that the sales tax will be re-enacted—whether at its present rate of 2 per cent or not and that the old revenue-raising standby, the ad valorem tax, will remain on the fiscal ledger.

As far as the legislature is concerned, the highway construction program is history. The next move is up to the highway commission and federal authorities. The highway commission has announced that it is ready to proceed immediately with the gigantic paving program—as soon as the Public Works administration in Washington releases all or part of the $15,000,000 to be allocated to the state as an outright grant.

The PWA is also expected to purchase $23,000,000 of state revenue notes, which will be retired from receipts from one and one-fourth cents of the gasoline tax over a 20-year period.

Husband Swapping Deal Is Brought To Close At Reno

RENO, Nev., Feb. 1.—(AP)—A Reno marriage completed today what Reno divorcees made possible—an exchange of husbands by two young and comely California women.

The unusual marital "deal" was closed by the marriage of Roy E. Burnett, Jr., 28, and Mrs. Desiree Werder, 25, at city hall.

Their wedding followed by six days that of their ex-mates—Mrs. Gladys L. Burnett and William M. Werder, former Stanford university track man—at Hollister, Calif.

The two young women, friends and neighbors for years at Redwood City, Calif., came here together about two months ago. The men, equally friendly, accompanied them.

Together, the four picked out a comfortable Reno apartment. The wives set up housekeeping for the six week residence period required for a Reno divorce. The husbands returned to California to resume work as employees of oil companies. They "batched" together in the women's absence.

Both women charged cruelty—Mrs. Burnett (now Mrs. Werder) obtaining her decree Jan. 10 and Mrs. Werder (now Mrs. Burnett) following Jan. 14.

The "husband-swapping" plan was disclosed after the second divorce by Harry Swanson, who acted as attorney for both women.

Today's marriage came unexpectedly.

"Mrs. Werder and Burnett drove up to the city hall," said Justice of the Peace Sullivan, "were married and then drove away—before I realized who they were. I don't know where they went."

The ceremony was witnessed by Sullivan's secretary and "official bridesmaid," Miss Wanda Shain, and by Attorney Swanson.

The Werders were married Nov. 1, 1932, at Stanford university, and the Burnetts Sept. 3, 1934, at Tracy, Calif. Custody of the Werders' five-month-old daughter, Betty Lew, has been fixed in an agreement made outside of court. Terms were not disclosed.

REDS WILL SUPPORT TOM MOONEY AS NEXT AMERICAN PRESIDENT

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(AP)—A Tom Mooney-for-President movement was proposed to organized labor today by the Communist party of the United States (opposition).

Jay Lovestone, secretary of the group whose leaders were expelled from the official Communist party six years ago in a dispute over principles, announced the plan.

Mooney, who has spent the last 20 years in California prisons for the San Francisco Preparedness day bombing, was advanced as a candidate behind whom Lovestone said Socialists, Communists and radical farm-labor groups could unite.

Mooney has not yet replied to a telegram notifying him of the proposed movement, Lovestone said.

Bertram D. Wolfe, publicity man for the opposition Communists, said he had no idea how Mooney could get out of prison if he should be elected.

of "such quantity as would be helpful and constructive to both prices and consumption" provided sales never exceeded 20,000 bales in any week.

Smith predicted the committee would report the resolution Tuesday. He said he would ask for "earliest consideration" on the senate floor.

The government controls approximately 6,000,000 bales of cotton under the 12 cent loans, which matured today, and through the producers pool.

Announcement of the senate plan came after a $1.50 break in the price of cotton which Smith attributed to a statement by the Commodity Credit corporation.

He said he interpreted the statement to mean the government's holdings would be disposed of in "generous" but unpredictable quantities.

FLANDIN SEEKING EUROPEAN LINEUP

New French Foreign Minister Desires Plan For Collective Security

PARIS, Feb. 1.—(AP)—France's new foreign minister, tall Pierre-Etienne Flandin, was understood tonight to be seeking a new European lineup for "collective security."

Premier Mussolini's reported threat that Italy's attitude is in the midst of change if the league is not careful was believed to have alarmed both Great Britain and France.

Considering Austria a "match over a powder barrel," diplomats said, Flandin and Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, are attempting to get the Soviet union to replace Italy in guaranteeing Austria's independence.

Flandin held conversations today with Maxim Litvinoff, the Soviet's foreign commissar, and later talked to King Carol and Foreign Minister Nicolas Titulescu of Rumania and then to Bojidar Pouritch, Yugoslav minister to Paris.

Should Russia undertake to back Austria's independence, her military power would be an increasing menace to Germany. This move would restore the Russians to full pre-war membership in the little club of big powers whose Stresa, Locarno and other pacts and understandings are designed to "police Europe."

Conversations begun by Flandin today are expected to continue for a full week. Later he will see King Boris of Bulgaria, Prince Ernst Von Starhemberg, Austria's vice chancellor and Prince Paul, Yugoslav regent.

The chamber of deputies is scheduled to take up Feb. 11 a bill ratifying the Franco Soviet pact of mutual assistance.

LEOPOLD DENIES ANY KNOWLEDGE OF LOEB DEATH

Laves of Sing Sing, N. Y., prison, might serve on it.

Highlights of the statement Bowen said Leopold gave him during a lengthy questioning included:

A defense of Warden Joseph E. Ragen from charges of "laxity."

A contention that merit alone won both of little Bobby Frank's slayers their places in the prison correspondence school.

A denial that they were "penitentiary pets."

"Discipline in the past year has been stricter than at any time since I've been in prison," Leopold, now in his twelfth year of incarceration, told Bowen.

"I'm not trying to brag about Leob. I think he was the only man in prison with the education and ability to organize and carry such a school."

"We never had any special privileges. On the contrary we were denied the usual ones because of the notoriety given us. Guards and officers have been particularly careful not to show us any preference, because we were Leopold and Leob."

"We have never had any complaint to make, we realize that any privileges to us would reflect on prison officials. We have always been treated decently, fairly and honestly."

MAN COUGHS UP CLUE AS TO WHO SHOT HIM

MATAWAN, N. J., Feb. 1.—(AP)—John J. Flood today literally coughed up the clue which may enable ballistic experts to determine who shot him in the back of the head two years ago.

Flood, then a policeman, was shot when he was answering a signal box early one morning. The bullet had lodged so close to the spinal column that physicians declared any operation would be too dangerous.

Today Flood complained of a pain in the back of his neck, and a fit of coughing seized him. The bullet popped out of his mouth. Ballistic experts began a renewed investigation to learn who shot him.

DUCE SAYS ITALY WILL DEFEND SELF

ROME, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Italians read tonight a warning in Premier Mussolini's own newspaper that "Italy will defend herself with teeth and nails. She has long been prepared for any eventuality."

This assertion was in a bluntly-phrased editorial on the European situation shortly before the fascist grand council and Il Duce met.

If sanctions are continued, the editorial continued, under the pressure of "imperialists and the blood-thirsty," Europe will be headed toward the world's "most terrible, unjust war."

Authoritative sources said cautiously that Mussolini "must have seen" the editorial before it was printed. It contended that a blockade of Italy is possible but asserted those who "think a war of the many against Italy will be easy" deceive themselves.

Simultaneously, authoritative sources hinted that while Italy could withstand an oil embargo it might not choose to do so.

Italy's martial atmosphere was heightened with an announcement by the National Union for Aerial Protection that its membership squadrons now total 60,000.

The union also announced the formation of an executive group to in-

AN EXPRESSION OF APPRECIATION to AN UNSELFISH OPPONENT

For the unselfish attitude evinced by my erstwhile opponent in withdrawing from our race and saving the turmoil of a Second Primary, it is only fitting that I should publicly express my appreciation.

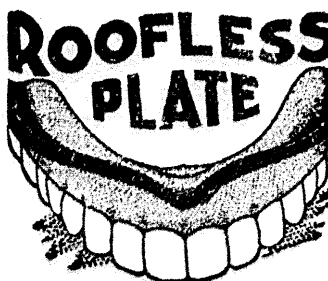

With five opponents in the field against me, each of whom had and deserved many friends and well-wishers, I had thought it presumptuous to hope that I might be re-elected in the First Primary. As a consequence, it was indeed gratifying to me that, with such strong opposition, both in numbers and in merit, I should have received a total of 3,423 votes or over 48% of the total votes cast for my office; whereas, my nearest opponent polled less than one-third of the total votes. Equally gratifying were the pledges of support from hundreds of friends and supporters of the four gentlemen who were eliminated from our race—pledges of friendship which had been voluntarily tendered me since January 21st and which had assured me of re-election in a Second Primary. I have already publicly expressed and now repeat my appreciation to the thousands of friends who supported me in the First Primary and I now acknowledge my debt of gratitude to the added host of friends whose outspoken preference for my re-election has demonstrated the futility of a Second Primary.

Even with every indication pointing so clearly to my re-election, however, it was, nevertheless, likewise gratifying that my worthy opponent and those friends who had been advising the course of his candidacy should have recognized the will of the people and so graciously withdrawn their opposition thereto—particularly since their withdrawal was entirely voluntary, without any overtures from me or any obligation on my part. And I want them to know that I am suitably appreciative of the unselfishness of their action.

May I reiterate at this time my oft-repeated assurance to the people of Monroe that I shall never seek to interfere in any way with their freedom of choice in filling their elective offices, even my own; and renew my pledge that I shall always accord to the other City Officials, regardless of their identity, the same unreserved cooperation for our City's betterment that I have in the past.

carry no more than 1,000 pounds a trip. Bland was negotiating for a light airplane also.

Bland said food supplies on the island would not last more than 36 hours. The island, located in Chesapeake bay, has been isolated for more than two weeks. It is approximately 80 miles from Washington.

The distress of the natives was reported to the congressman today by the dirigible pilot, Commander Karl Lange, who landed the airship on the ice 200 feet offshore.

A specially equipped airplane chartered by Col. Albanus Phillips, Baltimore packer, and piloted by Capt. Forrest Kenyon, former British army aviator, left Camden, N. J., this afternoon to try to land and learn needs of the islanders. He was expected to fly on to Easton, Md., and obtain supplies for them.

The American Red Cross was standing by ready to load both the blimp and army bombers with food for the hardy islanders, who have been without contact with the mainland nearly two weeks. Their supply was reported sufficient for only two more days.

GROUND HOG DAY MEANS NOTHING TO HIBERNATING RESIDENT IN WISCONSIN

WATERTOWN, Wis., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Tomorrow is the day when the ground hog crawls out to look for his shadow, but to Arthur E. Gehrike, the pillow burrower, it's just another day between the sheets.

Marmota Monax will have to see more than a shadow to get Watertown's hibernating tavernkeeper from the covers where he has spent the last 23 winters. Gehrike, better known here as "Turkey," peeked from beneath the quilts today, saw the frosted windowpane, looking for his shadow.

Subzero weather has brought demands for more blankets and more coal in the Gehrike furnace. F. C. Dittman who tends the fire during hibernational periods, remarked that "if we fire up much more we'll have roast turkey."

Monroe Lady Had Been Unable To Walk Without Assistance

Entire System Run-Down, Weak, Nervous, Neuritis Pains Made Her More Miserable; Then Gly-Cas Proves To Be A REAL Blessing.

There have been many medicines introduced here in Monroe in past years but never before has any medicine received such tremendous and widespread praise as that being accorded this new vegetable Gly-Cas. Actually hundreds of Monroe residents and people of this entire section say there never was a medicine like Gly-Cas for agonizing cases of rheumatism, neuritis, stomach, liver, kidney, bowel and blood troubles. You need not go farther than your neighbor to find the remarkable accomplishments of this new remedy.

Read what Mrs. Andie Womack, 2804 Lee Avenue, Monroe, has to say about Gly-Cas.

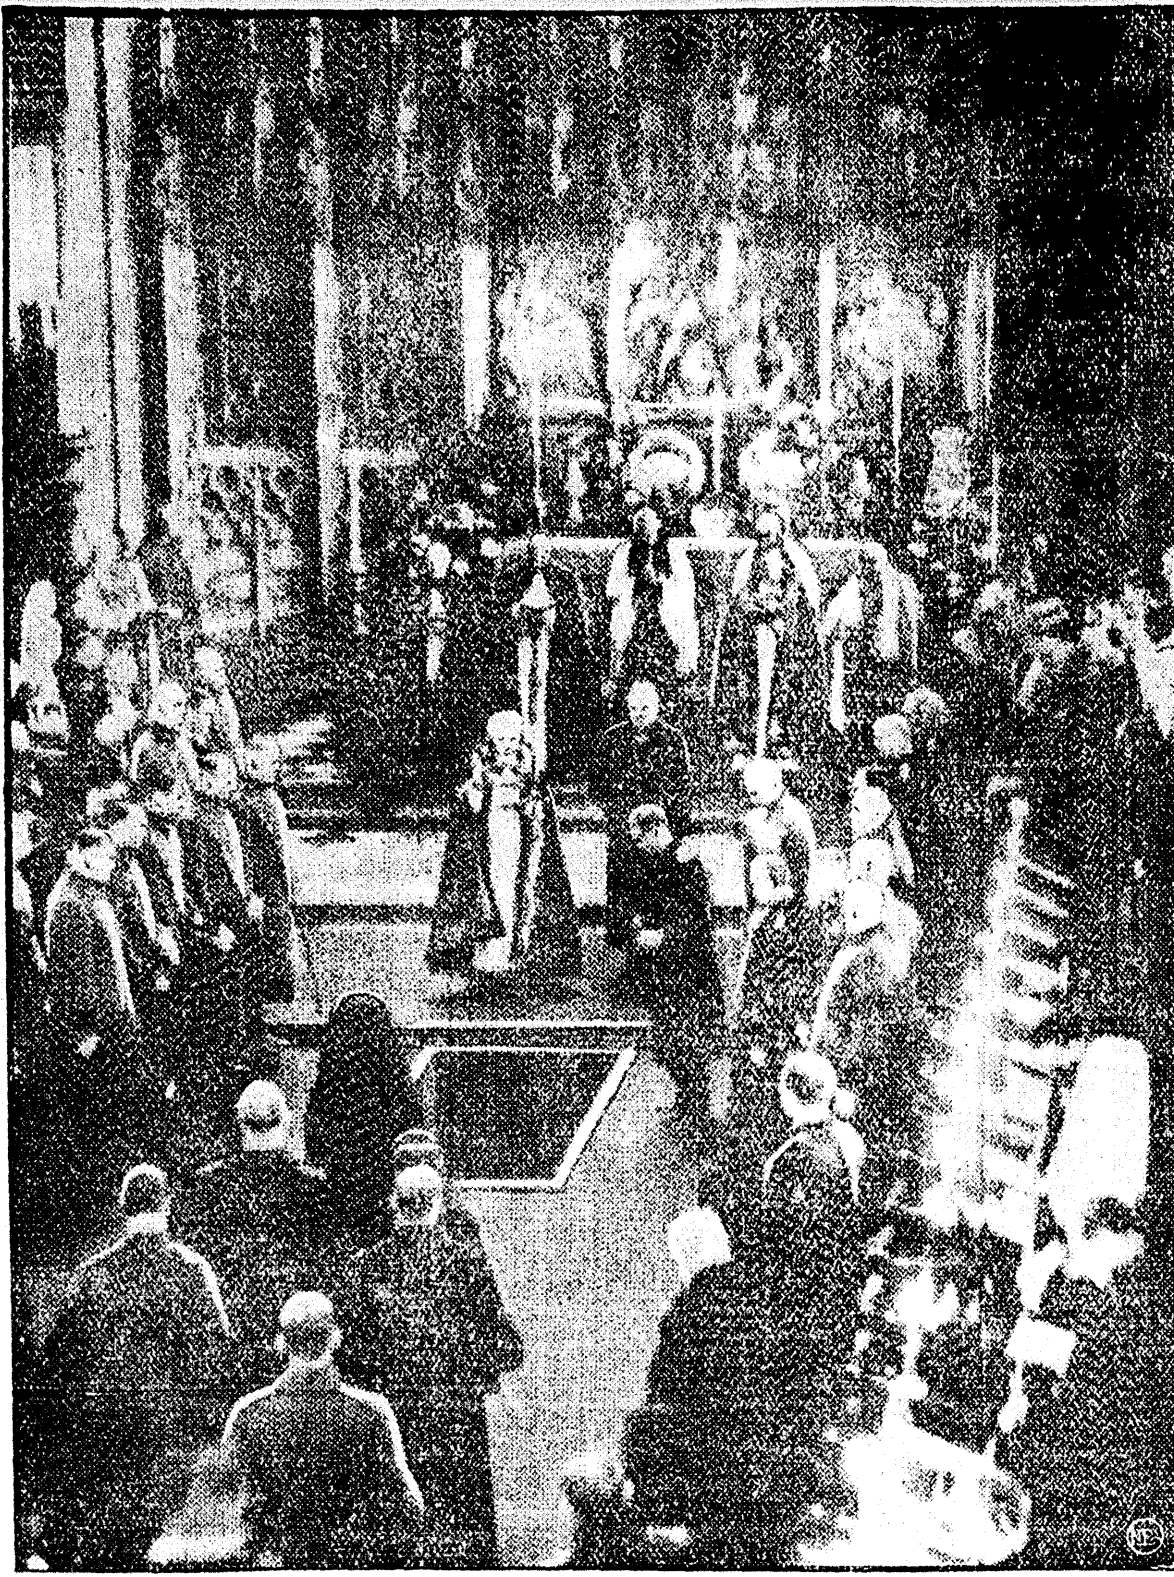

"My family and friends are actually astonished to notice the wonderful results of this new remedy, Gly-Cas, in my case," said Mrs. Womack. "I had been in such poor health for so long, suffered badly with nervous indigestion, weakened and run-down condition. It seemed I could not eat a single meal without distress afterwards, foods did me no good and I would become so nervous I felt I could not stand it any longer. Neuritis settled upon me, my system too and those sharp stabbing pains were awful. I was terribly weak and in spite of all I tried I could not find anything to even help me. I was in such a run-down condition I could not look after my own family or do my housework. In fact, I could not even walk without the assistance of someone. This constant suffering and the continual worry made me feel almost in despair as medicine after medicine flatly failed to help me in anyway. But finally through a friend I learned of the much talked about Gly-Cas and what it had done in so many cases similar to mine that I decided to put it to the test in my own case—and it was even better than I had been led to expect."

"I was soon convinced that it was my misfortune that I had not learned of Gly-Cas sooner," continued Mrs. Womack. "For this new remedy was what I had been needing all these years. I now am enjoying life as an entirely different person, feel I have completely regained my health and I am able to resume my normal duties. I enjoy substantial foods with no ill effects afterwards, that awful pain and suffering has left me and I am feeling fine. Gly-Cas is a REAL BLESSING to suffering humanity and everyone should take advantage of this new medical discovery—it does its work and does it well."

Gly-Cas is sold by Phoenix Drug Co., 348 DeSard street, this city, and by leading druggists in surrounding towns.

AS BODY OF KING GEORGE WAS LAID TO REST

This was the solemn scene as the last ritual of the funeral of a king, George V of England, was being completed in St. George's chapel, Windsor. The crypt containing the coffin of the monarch is shown open, with the new king, Edward VIII, standing over it at the right, sprinkling the casket with earth as the archbishop of Canterbury, in robes at the far side of the crypt, intones the burial service. With her back to the camera is the widow, Queen Mary, and around the vault are other members of the British royal household and mourners from reigning families of other nations. The picture was transmitted from London to NEA Service, Inc., in New York by radio.

Intense heat generated in the stones apparently was caused by their being set too close together.

cent correspondence relative to the politicalization of relief in Louisiana has borne fruit as evidenced by the resignation of Frank H. Peterman, Noe's telegram to Hopkins stated.

"By reason of Mr. James H. Crutcher's services under Frank H. Peterman, I am sure you will agree with me he could not be expected to remedy the deplorable conditions that exist in Louisiana in that department."

It was recalled that during one of the 1935 special sessions of the Louisiana legislature when Senator Long was in charge, Secretary Ickes declared that he would not permit federal millions to be turned over in relief activities to be used for "political purposes" by the Huey Long machine, and Long told Ickes to "go slap dab to hell."

Long charged in return that the Roosevelt administration planned to pour millions of dollars into Louisiana in a campaign to defeat him and had the legislature pass a law to jail any agent who used or attempted to use federal relief funds for political purposes in Louisiana.

The charge of the use of federal relief funds for political purposes was debated through the entire campaign which led up to the January 21 Democratic primary when the Long forces, led by the late Governor O. K. Allen, Long's political ally, were continued in power by overwhelming majorities at the polls.

Governor Allen died from cerebral hemorrhage a week after the election and Lieutenant-Governor Noe took office.

BOMBING PLANES PLAY WAR GAME

Mitchel Field Theoretically Blasted To Bits By Army Squadron

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Mitchel field theoretically was blasted to bits by a squadron of army bombing planes today while the defending force busied itself with other matters.

Tacticians emphasized they were not concerned with war-like problems at the moment and permitted the "invading" bombers to go through the motions of "laying their eggs" on the field without resistance.

The attacking force, six of the latest type bi-motored Martin bombers, swept over the field at an altitude of 15,000 feet in the opening phase of the general headquarters air force winter maneuvers and then returned to their temporary base at Concord, New Hampshire.

While they were "bombing" the most vital army field in the northeast, one wing of the defense force was "strafing" the airport at Worcester, Mass., on the theory that the bombers might like to stop off there on their way back, and the other wing was on the ground being serviced.

"All we attempted to do today," explained Lieut. Col. Russell L. Maxwell, press liaison officer, "was to give each group a reasonable day's work to do."

HEADS--- He Will

TOLEDO, Ohio, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Whether the ground hog keeps his annual appointment with the sun tomorrow depends on how his endocrine system is working—and not on his curiosity about his own shadow.

Seasonal changes in the endocrine system are a controlling factor in the hibernation of such animals as the ground hog, Prof. John M. Condrin of the University of Toledo's biology department said today.

Like many small animals of his type, the ground hog is unable to shiver or keep up his body temperature when the cold winds begin to blow, so he digs in for the winter. He comes out in the spring because the ductless glands of his endocrine system become more active.

For many generations amateur weather prophets have decided whether six more weeks of winter will follow, after determining whether the ground hog sees his shadow on Ground Hog Day.

TAILS--- He Won't

Prof. Condrin's current studies indicate that in early winter the ground hog's blood contains less sugar because of a disrupted balance in the endocrine system.

He has no reflex to permit him to shiver, he is unable to prevent a fall in his body temperature, and his metabolism drops," said Prof. Condrin.

"There is a definite relationship between the blood's sugar content and metabolism. The changes induce him to hibernate. In the spring his endocrine glands become more active and he emerges."

REOPENING OF SCHOOLS SOUGHT BY EDUCATORS

POPLARVILLE, Miss., Feb. 1.—(AP)—A committee of Pearl River county educators will go to Jackson next Wednesday in an attempt to secure funds to enable reopening of rural schools of the county which were closed indefinitely yesterday.

Ray R. Forner, county superintendent of education, said the committee was named at a meeting here. The Poplarville city schools, the Pearl River junior college and the Poplarville junior high school have not been closed, he said.

Why Newspapers Ask For "Early Copy"

The Advertiser Is Unfair to Himself When He Sends His Advertisement to the Newspaper Office Just Before the "Dead-Line"

While a newspaper is a marvel of mechanical efficiency, there are limits on what can be done by a given force of printers, stereotypers and pressmen in a short, crowded period of stress.

There is plenty of time to give every advertiser good service when early copy is sent in. Visitors to the mechanical department are invited so that the process of handling advertising may be thoroughly understood and the mechanical problems fully realized.

Your cooperation will be greatly appreciated by the entire personnel of the News-Star-World.

EARLY Copy Insures EARLY Delivery of the Paper and MORE READING HOURS for the Advertiser!

CENTER BOXERS SCHEDULE TWO MEETS WITH TECH

INDIANS TO MEET CENTENARY TEAM WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Coach Malone Announces
Seven-Match Card For Boxing Team

The Louisiana Tech boxing team will meet Northeast Center of L. S. U.'s Indians in two encounters this season, Coach James L. Malone, of Center, announced yesterday as he prepared his Redmen for their meet Wednesday at Shreveport against the strong Centenary Gentlemen.

With the securing of the two matches with Tech's Bulldogs, Coach Malone announced a schedule of seven meets, of which the date of only one is still undecided.

The schedule is:
Feb. 5—Centenary at Shreveport.
Feb. 13—Louisiana State "B" team, here or Lake Charles.

Feb. 16—Louisiana Tech at Ruston.
Feb. 21—Louisiana Tech here.
Feb. 23—Centenary here.

March 5—Louisiana Normal at Natchitoches.
Date undecided—Louisiana Normal, here.

The Redmen at present, however, are pointing for their impending clash with the Gent and the meeting is expected to tax the Indians to the utmost. Centenary recently held the strong Tulane mittmen to a 4 to 4 draw, while the Center team battled the East Mississippi Junior college aggregation, champions of Mississippi, to a like score, 4 to 4, here Thursday night.

Topping the Centenary-Center meeting will be the battle between Sammy Bono, stellar Indian light-heavyweight, and the impressive Willard Dean, star of the Gent. The battle between these two will without a doubt overshadow all other bouts on the card.

When Centenary met Tulane, Dean stopped his opponent with a knockout in less than 50 seconds of the first round, so furious was his attack. Bono practically duplicated the stunt here Thursday night when he cuffed his East Mississippi junior college opponent into submission in less than a round.

Both Bono and Dean are hard hitters and seasoned ringmen. Bono hasn't lost a fight in four years of boxing and he has started his fifth year quite impressively. But if ever he was faced with real competition and a sure test of his ring supremacy, it will be from Dean, a luminary in A. A. U. boxing circles who has fought the best in the south and mid-west and won.

Mike Blandino is another classy, hard-hitting member of the Gent's mitt team and will probably be matched against a luminary in the 145-pound division. Reynolds showed power during the first round of his battle Thursday, but then ran into a haymaker and took it on the chin. He came to in the dressing room wondering what it was all about, but he expects to do better against Blandino.

Other bouts on the program will probably be as follows: 118-pounds: "Bumps" Gormley, of Center, vs. Arthur Blue; 126-pounds: Jack Beckett of Center vs. Clyde Jackson; 135-pounds: Al LeBlanc of Center vs. Lindell Bonner; 155-pounds: Jack Gremillion or Louis Breard of Center vs. Paul Huxon; 165-pounds: Frank Mosely of Center vs. Oscar Bailey, and heavyweights, "Bully" White of Center vs. Tom Carpenter or John Lickish.

Gormley, Beckett and White, along with Bono, were winners in the Indians' opener here Thursday.

DOBBIE QUILTS AS CORNELL COACH

'Gloomy Gil' Steps Out After
16 Years In Interest
Of Harmony

ITHACA, N. Y., Feb. 1.—(P)—Gilmore Dobbie, who joined the ranks of football's unemployed today, simultaneously Cornell's new athletic administration announced it was in the market for the "best man available" for the job of head coach.

Known far and wide as "Gloomy Gil," particularly in the days when he had all-winning teams, Dobbie resigned after 16 years as Cornell's head coach and with two years to go on his last contract, the 37-year-old Scot, long rated among the ablest gridiron tutors in the country, yielded to pressure from under-graduate as well as alumni ranks, following the decline of Big Red football fortunes to a point where the varsity team of 1935 failed to win a game.

Dobbie, the envy of his profession from 1921 to 1935, when he turned out three successive undefeated and untied eleven, withdrew in the interests of harmony.

The lanky veteran, who quarterbacked the Minnesota Gophers of 1900 and 1901 and celebrated his birthday yesterday, stated his resignation is effective immediately, thus leaving the Big Red's 1936 squad without a tutor several weeks before spring practice and himself without the prospects of a new position.

The entire staff of assistant coaches, including five former Cornell players, goes out with Dobbie. The assistants to Gil last year were Frank Lueder, Bart Viviano, Dick Beyer, Nat Kosack and Frank Murdock.

DIDRIKSON HERE
Babe Didrikson, probably the greatest of all women athletes, will come here tomorrow for a golf exhibition at Lakeside Country club. Miss Didrikson has yet to win the laurels at golf that she cornered first as a basketball star and then as a phenomenal performer on the cinder path, but the presence of such a personage of the sports world is worth more than passing interest.

It isn't Babe Didrikson's fault that she hasn't become the champion golfer that seemed her destiny when she first took up the game. In the opinion of many experts, the only reason Miss Didrikson hasn't won numerous titles is that they wouldn't let her compete.

Just before the Olympic games of 1932, the Babe became interested in golf. Word went out that she would be plenty tough to beat once she mastered the fundamentals of the game. The experts thought probably that was just a bit of ballyhoo to stimulate interest in Didrikson's other accomplishments, and when she reached Los Angeles for the Olympics she was promptly challenged by golf pros, sports writers and others who wanted to get the lowdown.

The Texas wonder showed 'em in no uncertain fashion, and the writers then and there included golf among the many sports in which the Babe excelled.

Shortly thereafter came the silly A. A. U. ruling that deprived her of her amateur status because she had her picture taken beside a Dodge car and the Houston dealer used it in an advertisement. She couldn't compete in track and basketball, so she turned to golf. After several months of practice, she entered the Texas women's tournament and won it. She entered the national women's meet but was barred by the U. S. G. A., and thus her career as an amateur was ended. In our humble opinion, amateur sports was the loser.

We have always felt a little bit sorry for Babe Didrikson, although, goodness knows, she doesn't need anyone's sympathy. She struggled against big odds to reach the absolute peak in women's athletics, only to have her dreams shattered by a couple of asinine rulings which amateur bodies so frequently make.

Now Miss Didrikson is a member of a leading sporting good manufacturer's staff and is making an exhibition tour of the United States. Undoubtedly she is paid well for her time.

If and when they hold the first women's open golf tournament, we'll be pulling for Babe Didrikson to cop first money. She deserves a break.

LOYAL SUPPORTER
The grey-haired gentleman you saw bobbing around Northeast Center's corner during the Indians' fistie engagement with East Mississippi Junior college last Thursday night has earned the distinction of being Northeast Center No. 1 rooster. He's Arthur Gormley of Lake Charles.

Mr. Gormley formerly was a basketball player and a boxer. He is now a young "Bumps" Gormley, following in the footsteps of his father and already has developed into a better than average boxer. Mr. Gormley had the pleasure of seeing his son win his first fight as a member of the N. E. C. mitt team.

"Bumps" was a member of the Lake Charles boxing team during his high school days. This is his fifth year as a boxer, and Mr. Gormley has never missed being in his corner when the youngster climbed through the ropes.

However, Mr. Gormley doesn't confine his support to boxing. Despite the fact that his home is several hundred miles away, he saw every one of the Indians' football games last year, and has attended other athletic events here.

Monroe would be better off with lots of other Gormleys.

TIGERS TO FACE STRONG TEAM IN 3RD ENGAGEMENT

Farmers Have Excellent Record, Seek District Championship

Fresh from an easy victory over the State Champion Baton Rouge High school Bulldogs, the Tiger boxers of Neville High school will tangle with the Farmerville High school Farmers, rising powers in this district, in the Neville auditorium Tuesday night, beginning at 8 o'clock.

The Farmers, who have beaten the Choudrant Aggies, district champions, and several other outstanding teams of this area already this season, have not been beaten during their present campaign and are offering the Bengals a real threat.

A squad of eighteen mittmen will be sent to Monroe by Farmerville, it was reported yesterday, and Coach Percy Brown of Neville said yesterday that he would attempt to match every one of them. At least 12 or 14 fights can be expected.

Neville didn't get much opposition from Baton Rouge Friday and without a doubt the Bulldogs will have a hard time trying to hold their state title this spring. The Farmers on the other hand, have turned in several impressive victories and should give the Bengals more opposition.

Twelve battles are already tentatively scheduled. They are as follows, with Neville boxers named first: 90 pounds, Guy Miller vs. J. C. Williams; 95 pounds, Anthony Danna vs. John Terral; 98 pounds, Pat Cole vs. Lasuzzo vs. Horat Clark; 105 pounds, Marvin Gleason vs. Dunning Roy; 112 pounds, Tom King vs. Hansford Holloway; 118 pounds, Milo Mattinson vs. J. D. Auld; 126 pounds, Ernest Pierce vs. Carl Frazier; 126 pounds, Vaughan Payne vs. Loyd Dean; 135 pounds, "Shorty" Green vs. Woodie B. Compton; 135 pounds, "Shorty" Earl vs. George McGee; and 145 pounds, Walter Brown vs. John Ed Rabun.

Others who will accompany the visitors and whom Coach Brown hopes to match are James Everett, 70, Junior Rabun, 74; Leon Andrews, 85; N. B. Phillips, 122; Lorenzo Howard, 124, and Seamer Feazel, 126.

Four district point winners will be included on the program, but only one of them, Lavelle "Shorty" Green, is a district champion. Green will be the only point winner from Neville on the program, while Farmerville furnishes John Ed Rabun, Woodie B. Compton and Carl Frazier.

Rabun is the sparkplug of the Farmerville team. He has won 18 fights in his three years as a high school boxer and won second place in the 145-pound class at the district tournament last spring. He is fighting in that weight again and is matched against Walter Brady for the coming card. Brady and Rabun fought at the district tournament with the Farmerville boys winning a decision.

Compton was runner-up for the district 118-pound title last spring and Frazier won third place in the 126-pound class. Compton is fighting at 132 pounds now while Frazier is still boxing in his old class.

Because of the number of boys from Farmerville who will be ranging around in about the same classes of weight, Coach Brown said last night that it would be difficult to give a definite card. The prospective boxers will be weighed in preliminary to the fights, and boys weighing the same will be matched, with some consideration on height and reach.

The Farmers take a very serious and already looking as a distinct threat to the district title contenders at the approaching tournament.

TECHMEN DEFEAT
TAMPA, 32 TO 19

Bulldogs Click In Second Half To Trounce Florida Quintet

RUSTON, La., Feb. 1.—(Special)—Making half of their points by free throws, the Louisiana Tech cagmen trounced the University of Tampa Spartans, 32-19, here Saturday night in a game that began in a listless fashion but wound up with greater action on the part of the winners. Tech led at the half, 13-10.

The Spartans were assessed 20 personal fouls and the Techmen converted 16 of them into points. Frank Smith, local center, made good six out of seven free offerings. Of the eight field goals the Techsters squeezed in, Captain Madison Brooks claimed four, Fred Miller two and Billy Mitchell two.

McCartney, Spartan forward, was a spectacular performer and the high scorer in the encounter, tallying 12 points. He scored four field goals and four foul shots.

Personal fouls on the Techmen totaled 11, of which Tech five made seven counts.

The game was a non-conference battle. Although the University of Tampa is on probation as a requirement for admission into the S. I. A. A. league, the membership is not yet official.

This was the first appearance of a University of Tampa athletics team at Tech. The local varsity football squad defeated the Spartans at Tampa last December, and the gridders of the two schools will meet here in the fall of this year.

The engagement Saturday night concluded Tech's local schedule until February 10, when the Centenary Gentlemen will tangle with the Techicians here. The Tech five next week will take their first road trip of the year, playing first with Southwestern Louisiana institute at Lafayette Monday night.

MANGAN BEATS CUNNINGHAM IN MILE FEATURE

NEW YORK A. C. RUNNER PASSES KANSAN TO WIN

Venzke Finishes Second, Cunningham Third, In Wanamaker

By Alan Gould
(Associated Press Sports Editor)
MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Joe Mangan of the New York A. C., former Cornell university track captain, came from behind tonight in a blazing finish to whip the great Glenn Cunningham, world's record holder, in the Wanamaker mile, feature event of the annual Millrose A. A. indoor carnival.

Mangan, as well as Gene Venzke, Pennsylvania, passed Cunningham in the last few strides as the winner was clocked in 4 minutes, 11 seconds.

Mangan ran the greatest and fastest race in his life to beat the king of the milers in a thrilling finish that had a capacity crowd of 17,000 track fans on their feet yelling wildly.

The slim boy from Rutland, Vt., wearing the colors of the New York A. C. stuck to Cunningham's heels for ten of the 11 laps and outprinted the Kansan as they raced off the last turn for a 20-yard dash to the tape.

Mangan passed the faltering Cunningham within the last three strides and finished a scant two feet in front of the fast-closing Venzke, who was another two feet ahead of the record holder.

Venzke, beating Cunningham for the first time in three years, was clocked in 4:11 and Cunningham in 4:12. Thus only one fifth of a second separated the trio as they whirled across the finish mark.

Mangan scored his spectacular triumph a week after he had placed second to Cunningham at Boston in a race that brought forth an outburst of boos for the Kansan's alleged blocking tactics. Obviously out for "revenge" the former Cornell star ran a magnificent race.

Mingled cheers and jeers greeted Cunningham's appearance tonight. There was no untoward incident at any stage of the race but the crowd, obviously strongly partisan in Mangan's favor, put on a wild demonstration at the end of the race and again booed when the announcement listed Cunningham third.

Cunningham had no excuses. He ran an even faster race than he figured was necessary to win, fought gamely in the stretch and yielded only to a super performance by a runner who had only beaten 4:15 once for the mile.

Mangan's time was only 26 seconds short of the world indoor record of 4:08.4, held by Cunningham, who also holds the outdoor mark of 4:06.7.

A slow first quarter was costly to Cunningham. He took the pace setting over after Mangan showed the way for the first lap but the 4:40-yard mark was passed in 66.6 seconds. Thereafter the barrel-chested Kansan stepped up the pace but could not shake off either Mangan or Venzke.

The half-mile mark was reached in 2:08.4 as the front-running trio kept stride for stride. On the half lap, Cunningham, his face a beet red, made his last attempt.

Mangan, for a few strides, appeared to falter but dug in and was at Glenn's shoulder as they came off the last turn. He swept past Cunningham, with Venzke right behind him, in a rip roaring drive. Archie San Romani, of Kansas State Teachers college at Emporia, the National Collegiate A. A. mile champion, ran last most of the way but pulled up on the last lap to fourth place. Norman Bright of the Olympic club, San Francisco, national junior 1.50-mile title holder, ran fifth and Don Lash, Indiana, dropped out a lap from the finish.

Mangan, now a student at Cornell law school in New York City, has had a checkered career as a foot racer. He has specialized, however, in unexpectedly brilliant performances.

Eddie O'Brien, Syracuse university flash and national 400-meter champion, withstood a terrific stretch challenge to beat Chuck Hornbostel, Indiana star, by inches in the classic Millrose 600-yard invitation race. Making his first start in this fixture, O'Brien needed the five-yard margin he had at the last turn to stand off Hornbostel, the 1935 winner, with Jim Elliott of the Penn A. C. third. O'Brien was clocked in 1:14.

Two world record performances, a spectacular 400-meter sprint by Eddie O'Brien of Syracuse, national 400-meter champion, and the defeat of Cornelius Johnson of Los Angeles, national high jump titleholder, furnished other features in an exciting night of competition.

Hank Cleman of the Achilles club, Toronto, shattered all world marks for the one mile walk when he captured a handicap race, from scratch, in 6 minutes, 22 seconds. He wiped out the former indoor record of 6:27.2 and also bettered the world outdoor mark of 6:25.8, set by George Goulding, another Canadian, in 1910.

Sam Allen of Oklahoma Baptist college captured the 60 yard high hurdles final in the record equalling time of 7.7 seconds.

O'Brien posted a closing challenge by Chuck Hornbostel, Indiana speedster, to capture the classic Millrose 600 yard sprint for the first time. Hornbostel, last year's winner, failed by inches to overhaul O'Brien at the tape.

Johnson, unbeaten in the high jump for several years, tied with four others for second place at 6 feet 4 inches with Al Threadgill of Temple taking the honors at 6 feet, 6 inches. Threadgill missed three tries for a world record with the bar at 6 feet, 9 inches.

Manhattan college registered the fast one mile relay by taking the measure of Pittsburgh in 3 minutes, 22.2 seconds.

Famed Baltimore Orioles Put 'Inside' In Baseball

National Granted 31 Franchises Before Loop Was Stabilized

By Harry Grayson
(Sports Editor, NEA Service)

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Chicago and Boston are the only two cities that have been members of the National league throughout the 60 years of its existence.

During the nineteenth century, franchises jumped hither and yon according to the vicissitudes of baseball and ebbs. In the 25 years up to and including 1900, there were 31 different franchises held a few of them for only one season.

William A. Hulbert's guiding force set the game on a solid basis in Chicago from the beginning. "The Father of the League" built the background on which many of the sport's greatest figures have moved, from Cap Anson down through the Tinkers-Evers-Chance era into the Wrigley championships of 1929, '32, and '35.

Boston's first administration, headed by N. T. Appolonia, lasted only one campaign, but in 1877 began the 30-year reign of Arthur Soden, whose entrance meant important money spent to purchase stars. The business first big-money deals were transactions in which Soden coin drew Chicago luminaries across country to play with the "Bean-eaters."

The turn of the century marked a real milestone in National league history, instead of merely a change in the circuit's stationery. The league lineup, as it started the grind of 1901—Chicago, Boston, Brooklyn, Cincinnati, New York, Philadelphia, St. Louis, and Pittsburgh—has remained intact.

A roll-call of cities that have had their names in National league championships standings will bring generations of astonishment to today's generation of fans.

Providence, for instance, was a powerful baseball metropolis in the first dozen years of the loop's life. The Providence Grays, managed by George Wright, won the pennant in 1870 and again in 1884, with Old Hoss Radbourne the hero.

Wright was the most famous shortstop in the early days of the dodge. He is the only surviving member of the illustrious Cincinnati Reds of 1889 and the oldest living ball player.

Radbourne pitched in 73 contests for the Grays in 1884, winning 63 and losing 10.

From July 23 until Sept. 26, Old Hoss pitched every game, bagging 18 in succession. Each morning his iron arm was so sore that he couldn't lift it to his shoulder. He started to warm up by rolling to the catcher. After an hour or more of this he could toss the ball lightly. By game time he was ready to go. His regular assignments were not enough. Radbourne won five exhibition games during the schedule. That fall he trimmed the New York Metropolitans in three consecutive engagements in the Temple Cup series, which corresponded to the world series of today.

Detroit bagged the flag in 1887, and the Baltimore Orioles of the same story held sway in 1894, '95, and '96. Ned Hanlon managed that immortal aggregation and on the player list were such men as John McGraw, Hughie Jennings, Wilbert Robinson, Willie Keeler, Kid Gleason, Jack Doyle and others who lived to be patriarchs of the pastime in the twentieth century.

The Orioles were the first outfit to go south for training. Hanlon took them to Macon in the spring of 1894. Baseball writers said that he was going goofy, but the Baltimore array was so successful that in 1895 every big league team went to Dixie to get in shape.

The Orioles perfected the hit-and-run. Bunting had been done before by other teams, but perfect bunts and putting the ball into whichever field the batter desired had never been

FAMOUS WOMAN ATHLETE BOOKED AT LOCAL COURSE

'Babe' And Cole To Play Mrs. Girault And McKenzie In Match

Mildred "Babe" Didrikson, world famous woman athlete, will play a golf exhibition at Lakeside Country club Monday afternoon, starting at 1:30 o'clock.

Miss Didrikson will be paired with Winnie Cole, Municipal Golf club pro, against Mrs. E. S. Girault, local champion and runner-up in the state women's tournament, and Jim McKenzie, McGuire Park Golf club pro.

Miss Didrikson is making an exhibition tour of the nation and her appearance Monday is being sponsored by the Monroe Hardware company and the Lakeside club.

Miss Didrikson, a Texas girl, first won fame as a basketball player. She won several all-American honors and was rated as one of the finest cagers in the country. Later she added further laurels in track and field events in various meets, and climaxed her triumphs with a phenomenal performance in the Olympic Games of 1932 at Los Angeles.

The Babe became interested in golf by accident. Passing a driving range, she stopped and decided to try her hand at the sport. She surprised herself and everybody else by socking 'em far and straight, and she decided to have a try at the game in earnest.

Following her Olympic triumphs, Miss Didrikson ran about of the A. A. U. losing her amateur standing because she allowed herself to be photographed beside an automobile for advertising purposes. She then turned to golf as her sole athletic career.

After winning the Texas Women's championship, Miss Didrikson again was barred by an amateur association, the U. S. C. A., which refused to permit her to compete in the national women's tourney. She then became associated with a golf goods manufacturer with whom she now is connected.

Miss Didrikson has been urging the women of the nation to take up golf. She has the following to say about the game:

"Very few women go out for sports in a big way; they claim they neither have the physical ability nor the money. Of course sports, most of them, do call for reasonable physical vitality. Miss and Mrs. Anybody decide they might as well not start. It is a fact, most sports activities, from city swimming to country horseback riding to cost money. Basketball and baseball, the costliest sports for women, end with high school or college days. Miss Anybody with only Saturday nights and Sundays out of the office, school, or shop, contents herself with dancing in the smoky atmosphere of a night club—at someone else's expense. Mrs. Anybody, busy with her home, civil games, sewing circles, and children, satisfies her yearning for sports activity with a mild bout of ping pong in the dining room or rathskeller.

"But do they—sports—cost too much? I'd say there's one thing which every woman wants and which sports more than anything else will help to give her—health and beauty of figure. Right? And, oh, illogical as it may seem, she will pay the doctor three dollars a visit to diagnose her upset stomach or indigestion, she will buy patented cure-alls at a dollar or two a bottle to renew her energy and give her pep, smoke a dollar's worth of cigarettes a week to "soothe" her nerves, spend countless dollars on cosmetics, wear bonnets, torture herself in beauty parlors, buy skin foods, and expensive girdles and corsets to improve her appearance, but will consider it an extravagance to spend just a little on sports which will guarantee her good health—the foundation for all real beauty—the possession of which would automatically cancel the necessity for a good part of these other expenses.

"How to break down this present, pervasive notion that sports are too expensive, or that they require too much physical ability, has been asked of me by many persons. Golf—is my answer and it can be yours. In the first place, you play it alone or with friends, secondly, no matter how poor a player you believe you are you can always find someone who is in your class or can adjust his game to yours by giving or taking strokes, therefore, you can have all the pleasure of a sociable contest without "spoiling someone else's game." Thirdly, golf is primarily a game of skill and coordination, not strength. In the fourth place, golf is essentially sociable; you can talk as much as you please while you leisurely walk from shot to shot; and fifth, golf is leisurely; you accumulate good health while "playing." You can go as slowly as you may wish and stop whenever you feel like it. In the sixth place, it takes but a short time to develop an average game. Seventh, you can practice golf at home as well as on the course, and in what other game can you do that? (Picture learning to ride a horse in your living room, learning to play tennis in your garden, learning to swim in your bath tub!) Eighth, (may I'm coming along?) golf is the best aid for that "perfect figure"; you not only exercise your muscles and keep off any excess weight, but you play often enough, but your skin becomes marvelously clear, your carriage becomes poised and erect, and you gain an ease of motion and balance which earns you the cut-ins on the dance floor. And ninth, considering the out and out real fun of the game, its social possibilities, and its healthfulness, the cost is practically zero."

Whereupon the uncle offered to provide the cost of college if Naismith would work on the farm in the summer. The three years in theological seminary were financed by teaching the gym classes of McGill.

As a boy, Naismith played soccer as his fellows did—"Indian" in the woods as a small boy, duck on the rock, lacrosse, and in the winter snow shoeing and ice hockey or rather shinny. "I had seven fights with one grade school boy," he said. "I licked him the last time."

His interest in organized athletics came in his first year in McGill. Two juniors came to his room one evening, and warned him he was not getting enough exercise. "I laughed them off—'till they were gone," says Dr. Naismith, "but after they were gone, I gave the matter some thought, and decided to go to the gym. I went the next night, seized a pair of Indian clubs and took a place in front of the instructor. Later I discovered that he reserved the front rank for the more proficient of his pupils."

Dr. Naismith played football six years, for there were no eligibility rules then, as now. Members of the team provided their own equipment, and because the medics were busy until dark, the team practiced at 6:30 a.m. Lack of substitutes for both the soccer and the rugby teams made it necessary for these teams to practice together, scrambling one day.

M. C. A. in France during the World war.

Dr. Naismith entered the Y. M. C. A. after 1890, with Alonzo Stagg, and they became of superior stature, completed the two-year course in a year, and Dr. Naismith was put on the Y. M. staff. The following December he devised the game that has made him famous.

SMITH NAMED HEAD COACH AT DUQUESNE

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 1.—(AP)—John P. (Clipper) Smith, a Notre Dame football star under Knute Rockne, today became head coach and athletic director of Duquesne university.

He replaces Christy J. Flanagan, who resigned Thursday to go into the oil shipping business with his father in Texas.

Smith formerly coached at Trinity college, North Carolina State and Newark academy and served as an assistant at Georgetown. He came to Duquesne as Flanagan's assistant in 1934.

The new Duquesne mentor announced last night his signature to a one-year contract, the terms of which were not disclosed.

Duquesne's 1936 schedule calls for games with Waynesburg, Rice, Geneva, Pitt, Detroit, Washington of St. Louis, Carnegie Tech and Marquette.

L. S. U. MITTMEN MEET OLE MISS

Tigers Seek Revenge For Earlier Beating Next Tuesday Night

BATON ROUGE, La., Feb. 1.—(Special)—Coach Ed Khoury's Louisiana State university boxing squad needed a win to practice this week. They spent more hours in the gym than he ordered them to. Naturally there is a reason behind this unheard of enthusiasm on the part of the boxing team.

Two weeks ago the Bengals invaded Oxford, Miss., to do battle with Ole Miss mitt slingers. The Tigers being defending champions of the South-eastern conference, were heavily favored to win their matches. As the evening's festivities drew to a close, however, the Bengals found themselves on the losing end of a 4-1-2 battle. They had lost their first dual match in two years.

All the way home the Bengals rehashed the matches and brooded moodily. Most of the squad felt that the referee at Ole Miss had been a bit too charitable to the home team. The result of the fight was that the Tigers resolved to put on the steam and wallop the Ole Miss fighters unmercifully the next time "he two teams clashed—if possible.

"We gotta trim them and the bigger the score the better," has been the attitude of the squad.

The Tigers will get their chance next Tuesday when the Ole Miss mitt men invade the Tiger stronghold and this is the reason for all the Bengal lust for training.

The clash of the two squads is expected to result in the hardest fought battle of the year. Ole Miss is going to be subdued without a struggle as their earlier win over the championship Tigers makes it one of the favorites for the conference title.

Coach Khoury's squad on the other hand is determined that the invaders be routed with respect for the conference champions no matter what the cost.

Former Cardinal Pitcher Is Auburn's 'Handy-Man'

By Kenneth Gregory
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

AUBURN, Ala., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Meet Dell Morgan, handy man at athletics at Alabama Polytechnic institute!

He's one of the busiest members of Auburn's coaching staff and probably has as many irons in the fire as any athletic instructor in the nation.

The 33-year-old Texan, who once pitched for the St. Louis Cardinals and toiled with a number of minor league teams, performs duties that fit these titles:

Varsity football line coach.
Freshman basketball coach.
Varsity baseball coach.
Varsity boxing coach.
Varsity wrestling coach.

Morgan, as energetic and well-liked as they come, was one of the greatest football tackles under a coach, from which he was graduated in 1925. He coached baseball at his alma mater in 1926.

Among the clubs Morgan served during his professional baseball career were, in addition to St. Louis, Quincy, Greenville, Corsicana, Mexico, Tulsa and San Antonio. He had to forsake the game because of his health.

Upon retiring from active baseball, he coached at Quana and Lubbock high schools, in Texas, and was the pilot of Texas Tech teams from 1930 until he came to Auburn's coaching staff in 1934.

Morgan was a regular member of the wrestling and boxing teams at Austin college and later coached these sports at Texas Tech. A former pilot, he enforces strict training regulations and he sets the pace by training hard with his proteges.

He can recall only one superstition he ever had faith in. While coaching basketball at Texas Tech he found out the birthdays of all his players and then looked up the star under which each was born.

If the almanac said a basketball man would be lucky on a certain night, Morgan would instruct that player to shoot for the basket every time he got possession of the ball, regardless of position. Morgan says the plan worked and his team upset the "dope" several times.

Morgan is married and has a son, Dell, Jr., six months old. "He's my only boy," says the coach. Morgan is one of Auburn's leading citizens, taking an active interest in all community affairs.

His hobby is hunting, and he still talks of the deer he killed on a preserve in western Alabama during the holidays.

Significant of his many coaching duties at Auburn is the fact that his varsity line was penetrated for only one touchdown in the entire 1935 season.

SOFTBALL PILOTS TO HOLD MEETING

Rules For Twilight League To Be Made At Gathering This Week

Managers of teams which comprised the Twilight Softball league last year will be called within the next few days for a meeting to determine the future of the league, it was announced yesterday by O. N. McNeil, secretary of the league and prominent member of the Y. M. Men's club, sponsor of the organization.

Mr. McNeil said that the athletic committee of the Y. M. Men's club met last week and decided to turn the matter over to the various managers. The managers will be asked to decide under what rules and regulations they wish to play this season, he said, and the meeting to be called soon will decide the future course of the league.

That the league will operate this year is certain, Mr. McNeil said, but definite plans will be worked out at the meeting.

"The Y. M. Men's club feels that the managers should be given the opportunity to lay down the regulations under which the league should be operated," Mr. McNeil said. "Whatever they decide upon will be satisfactory to the club."

The definite date for the meeting will be set within the next two or three days, it was announced.

KOPECKY AND M'NAUGHT SIGNED FOR MAIN EVENT

BRUSCATO BOOKS SAME CARD FOR WEDNESDAY SHOW

Promoter Hopes To Get Semi-Finalists On Weekly Mat Program

Joe Kopecky will meet Don McNaught in the main event of the weekly wrestling card at Roosevelt stadium Wednesday night and Promoter Bruscatto will attempt to re-book last week's postponed card in its entirety, he said last night. Kopecky and McNaught were billed to wrestle the main event of the card which was called off on account of the freezing weather, and Floyd Byrd was booked to meet Ace Freeman in the semi-final.

Bruscatto also announced yesterday that new furnaces had been ordered for the stadium and that next Wednesday night's show will go on, regardless of the weather. Last week the thermometer dropped some 10 degrees below freezing and the promoter called off the show despite the fact that a fair gathering of fans was on hand to see the action. He guarantees plenty of heat this week, both inside the stadium and in the ring, he said yesterday.

Kopecky was an arch villain at the stadium a couple of years ago. In fact, he was one of the most hated, yet respected, grapplers who appeared regularly at the local wrestling emporium. He started several riots and barely escaped the wrath of the customers on numerous occasions.

The Bohemian is as rough as they come, but he also knows plenty of scientific holds and sometimes makes use of this knowledge when his bar-houses tactics fail. However, it's a rare thing that he can't make his roughness "stick."

Kopecky is a veteran who knows all the tricks. He gets by with more illegal stuff than the average meanie and is the bane of all referees wherever he works. He is certain to tangle with Butch Martin, husky referee who handles all the stadium bouts, before the match is 10 minutes old, and their side battle should be interesting to watch. Martin will be handling no novices when he attempts to discipline Kopecky.

McNaught has shown here several times in the past two months and has built up a large following. The Canadian, who is a brother of the popular Scotty McNaught, although a youngster, has picked up plenty about the game and he usually relies on his science to win for him. He's a powerful grappler and makes good use of his strength and endurance.

BOLTON DEFEATS QUACHITA CAGERS

Alexandria Team Scores 28-To-17 Victory Over Local Players

The boys' basketball team of Bolton high school, Alexandria, defeated the Quachita Parish Lions 27 to 17, in a game last night at the Brown Paper mill gymnasium.

The Lions gained a 5-to-0 lead early in the first quarter, but the visiting players soon began tossing numerous shots at the basket and the quarter ended 6 to 5 in favor of the Bears.

From that point to the end of the game the Alexandria team held a lead.

The score at the end of the first half was 13 to 10.

Playing a fast offensive game, the Bears tossed many shots throughout the contest, missing the basket frequently but nevertheless scoring often enough to win by a safe margin.

CATCHES PITCHER

The most ardent admirer of Johnny Broca's pitching this season will be Miss Cordelia Frances Ireland, above, of Orleans, Cape Cod, Mass. Miss Ireland caught the eye and heart of the Yankee pitcher when he played on the Orleans team in the Cape Cod league several years ago. They are to be married in the near future.

By HARRY GRAYSON

Athletes seldom realize when they are slowing up. They have to be told.

"I felt all right, but I just wasn't moving as fast toward the end," explained Bunny Corcoran, who played professional football for 10 campaigns. "I thought I was flying, when in reality I was hardly moving faster than a dog-trot."

The way the professional game is now played, Corcoran does not believe that the average life of a player will be more than six years after graduation from college.

Arthur Bryant, who played football at Cornell years and years ago, expresses the opinion that athletic legends aren't what they used to be. He blames the automobile, or rather the youths who ride in them.

"When I was at Cornell we had to walk up and down those steep hills several times a day," explains Bryant. "Now most of the students ride back and forth in automobiles. They scarcely walk 200 yards a day. An athlete is as good as his legs and you don't develop legs riding in a car."

Grover Cleveland Alexander attributes the shortage of first-class baseball talent to the automobiles.

"The kids are too busy scooting around the country on week-ends, asserts the immortal right-hander. "When I was a boy in Nebraska we had no way of rolling down the pike for miles. The result was that we stayed home, and, having nothing much else to do, played baseball."

Like all other die-hards, Jack Dempsey wants to see Joe Louis take a real smash on the jaw and keep coming after branding the youthful negro a great heavyweight.

The man mauler admits that we probably never will know how Louis would act if he had to haul himself off the floor, for the very good reason that there are no fighters around with sufficient ability and courage to extend the brown bomber of the Buckleaw.

What type of warrior would stand the best chance against Louis?

"First, a guy would have to have courage, the old will to win, which none of Louis' opponents so far have had," replies Dempsey. "He'd have to be the sort of fighter who would be smart enough to make Louis lead so that he could get under his punches and inside to work on Joe's body at close quarters. He'd have to stay in there and punch."

"Louis has to be on balance to deliver a damaging punch, the same as anybody else, and a guy would have to be smart enough to keep him off balance constantly."

Harry Downes, young Boston college coach, does not believe that there should be points awarded for each first down in football, but does think that some graduation of points must be given for field goals of various lengths.

"For example, there might be a sliding scale whereby a field goal from the 40-yard line would produce

"The 'slow whistle' adopted last year, permitted the ballcarrier, whose progress had been halted, to pass, kick or break away."

The move to strike out the "slow whistle" ruling is designed to curtail injuries, Harry Stuhldreher of Villanova, chairman of the press committee, said.

"The committee is doing everything in its power to protect the boys."

Regarding the penalty for interference with the kicker, the rules committee proposes that the team in possession of the ball shall be given the five-yard penalty which is now inflicted on the defense, and the play run again from the advanced point.

Previously the kicking team was given a first down with the penalty.

The coaches felt this was too severe. Under this reform the down and the objective remain the same.

The other major recommendation concerning eligibility of players going down under passes, seeks to establish a universal interpretation of the rule.

Committee members pointed out the rule says an ineligible man must not be "in the vicinity" of the receiver. They said the interpretation placed on "in the vicinity" varies in different sections.

Stuhldreher said the numbering of players is "for the benefit of the public and the press and marks another step toward uniformity."

"It's no break for the coaches," he smiled; "it makes scouting that much easier."

The proposed universal use of the pistol to mark the end of the game whistles are used in many places—also a move for uniformity.

The national rules committee, although unopposed, usually looks with favor on the coaches' proposals.

Dr. John B. Sutherland of Pitt presided at the meeting in the absence of Lou Little of Columbia, committee chairman. Sutherland said the committee thrashed over 16 proposed rules changes.

The coaches considered returning the goal posts to the goal line but decided against it because of the "injury problem." They said a chart of games since 1912 shows the kicking of goals "has depreciated but little."

They argued a proposal to change the rule on interference with a pass receiver but decided the regulation "is O. K. as it is."

The committee adopted a resolution lauding the late Dan McGugin, former head coach at Vanderbilt, and asserting:

"We shall carry a feeling of great personal loss and an abiding sympathy for his family and associates at Vanderbilt university."

Since traffic experts regard that means of transport as best suited to streets crowded with traffic, a "flying squad" of London's police force is equipped with bicycles.

more points than one from the 30, and one from the 20 would be worth more than one from the 20," says Downes.

"It could be arranged so that any field goal negotiated inside the 20-yard line would count three points, just as it does now. From the 30-yard line a successful field goal would count four points and from the 40-yard line or beyond five points."

"A field goal should never count as much as a touchdown, but some such scale as that which I have just mentioned might be a good thing. It would help bring back the field goal."

Downes' suggestion is at least new.

ABANDONMENT OF 'SLOW WHISTLE' ONE OF CHANGES

Grid Mentors Also Would Do Away With Interference Penalty

By John F. McMahon (Associated Press Staff Writer)

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 1.—Striving for greater uniformity in football the rules committee of the American Football Coaches association tonight recommended six sweeping changes including abolition of both the "slow whistle" and the first down penalty for interference with a kicker.

The 30 coaches attending the all-day committee meeting further recommended that players be numbered on the front and back of their jerseys, that the rule on ineligible players going down under passes be clarified and that the firing of the pistol signal the end of the game be observed universally.

The other recommendations suggested that smaller institutions sometimes find the expense of four officials a burden. The coaches proposed that in such cases institutions be allowed to designate a person acceptable to both teams to keep time and tabulate substitutions.

The recommendations will be submitted to the National Collegiate A. A. rules committee, football's lawmakers, at a meeting in Palm Springs, Calif., February 14 to 16.

The "slow whistle," adopted last year, permitted the ballcarrier, whose progress had been halted, to pass, kick or break away.

The move to strike out the "slow whistle" ruling is designed to curtail injuries, Harry Stuhldreher of Villanova, chairman of the press committee, said.

"The committee is doing everything in its power to protect the boys."

Regarding the penalty for interference with the kicker, the rules committee proposes that the team in possession of the ball shall be given the five-yard penalty which is now inflicted on the defense, and the play run again from the advanced point.

Previously the kicking team was given a first down with the penalty.

The coaches felt this was too severe. Under this reform the down and the objective remain the same.

The other major recommendation concerning eligibility of players going down under passes, seeks to establish a universal interpretation of the rule.

Committee members pointed out the rule says an ineligible man must not be "in the vicinity" of the receiver. They said the interpretation placed on "in the vicinity" varies in different sections.

Stuhldreher said the numbering of players is "for the benefit of the public and the press and marks another step toward uniformity."

"It's no break for the coaches," he smiled; "it makes scouting that much easier."

The proposed universal use of the pistol to mark the end of the game whistles are used in many places—also a move for uniformity.

The national rules committee, although unopposed, usually looks with favor on the coaches' proposals.

Dr. John B. Sutherland of Pitt presided at the meeting in the absence of Lou Little of Columbia, committee chairman. Sutherland said the committee thrashed over 16 proposed rules changes.

The coaches considered returning the goal posts to the goal line but decided against it because of the "injury problem." They said a chart of games since 1912 shows the kicking of goals "has depreciated but little."

They argued a proposal to change the rule on interference with a pass receiver but decided the regulation "is O. K. as it is."

The committee adopted a resolution lauding the late Dan McGugin, former head coach at Vanderbilt, and asserting:

"We shall carry a feeling of great personal loss and an abiding sympathy for his family and associates at Vanderbilt university."

more points than one from the 30, and one from the 20 would be worth more than one from the 20," says Downes.

"It could be arranged so that any field goal negotiated inside the 20-yard line would count three points, just as it does now. From the 30-yard line a successful field goal would count four points and from the 40-yard line or beyond five points."

Winning Golf

By Lawson Little

The years of 1935 and 1936 should have a noticeable effect on the standard of British golf, because by the end of this year, some twenty British golfers will have visited and played in the United States.

These players will have a chance to see the vast improvement, American ingenuity has made in the golfing equipment field. Last year the British Ryder cup team came to New Jersey to play the Ryder cup matches with a limited number of clubs of the old-fashioned type in their bags. As you know, they were hopelessly defeated by a heads-up American team.

Several weeks later they played another team match—one against Chicago district professionals. Here they appeared on the course with more modern equipment and clubs made including abolition of both the "slow whistle" and the first down penalty for interference with a kicker.

The 30 coaches attending the all-day committee meeting further recommended that players be numbered on the front and back of their jerseys, that the rule on ineligible players going down under passes be clarified and that the firing of the pistol signal the end of the game be observed universally.

Commission Did Part In Preparing Retzlaff For Louis

By John J. Ramano

Charley Retzlaff was chilled by the members of the Illinois Athletic commission before he entered the ring two weeks ago. The North Dakota farmer was threatened with the forfeiture of his purse if he did not do his best against the Detroit Bomber.

Retzlaff knew all about Louis' crushing punching power. He was told by thousands of admirers that he was taking his life in his hands by having the temerity to face the murderous blows of the negro. He also was told that if he thought anything of his wife and three children the next best thing to facing Louis might be to sit in the electric chair. To make matters worse the sage members of the Illinois boxing board laid the law down to the hither-jawed Retzlaff.

McFarland Draws Ire

Packey McFarland was appointed to the board to give it balance of practical knowledge in the ring game. Packey is often called the "uncrowned lightweight champion of his day" by many experts. The fact that McFarland weighed 138 pounds in his best day when 133 pounds was the recognized lightweight limit did not detract from the claims of his admirers.

Cotton

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 1.—(P)—Cotton values fluctuated nervously around the previous closing levels today, finally ending irregularly lower. The March position was an exception to the trend, closing four points higher at 11.04. May was net unchanged at 10.76, while July at 10.54 and October at 10.24 showed small price recessions.

Uncertain price movements reflected attempts on the part of the trade to translate the new loan plan into price trends.

Speculative interests brought early to cover Friday's short sales. Price fixing by the trade also brought a little purchasing into the market.

Dealings were quiet.

Cotton futures closed steady, net 4 points higher to 3 points lower.

New York Stocks

By Victor Eubank
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—The stock market started off with a bullish rush today, but later encountered profit-taking in a number of the recent spectacular gainers.

Many new highs for the past several years were recorded before realizing developed. Advances of fractions to a point or so were scattered over the list at the somewhat irregular close. Transfers approximated 1,700,000 shares.

The little inflation sentiment that may have been present in the preceding session seemed to have cooled perceptibly.

Overnight buying orders were in abundance at the opening. The ticker tape dropped a few minutes behind floor transactions during the first hour and near the finish.

Cotton was unable to get ahead and grains were relatively narrow. The French franc gave ground to the dollar and other foreign exchanges were mixed. Bonds were rather steady, although U. S. government securities continued hesitant.

Rail shares were about unchanged and the utilities and aircrafts pointed lower. The steels and motors slipped a fraction in either direction.

Moderate gains were registered by DuPont, Johns-Manville, Deere, Westinghouse, Collins & Aikman, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Standard Oil of New Jersey and a number of other. Douglas yielded about 2 points. Radio preferred "B" and common were heavy following publication of the company's recapitalization plans. Electric Power & Light, Consolidated Gas, Columbia Gas sagged.

The battle between currency expansionists in congress and administrative forces demanding new taxes for the revised farm relief program and to meet the cost of the soldiers' bonus, found conflicting opinions in the financial district as to the outcome.

Some bankers, admitting the inflationary implications of the increasing public debt and an unbalanced budget, expressed the belief that the "printing press" money bloc in congress would have much difficulty in swinging a vote for greenbacks. At the same time, the matter of new taxes did not brighten the horizon of market followers.

He will officiate when the Holy Eucharist is celebrated at 7:30 a. m., and will address the church school at 9:30 a. m.

The exercises of confirmation will be held at 11 o'clock when a good sized class will be received. The bishop will also preach the sermon at that service, and it is expected that there will be a large attendance, as is customary when the bishop is present.

The bishop will go to St. David's Episcopal church in Rayville to conduct the Sunday night service at 7:30 p. m.

On Monday, the final day of the bishop's visit here, the men of Grace church will give a banquet at the parish house at 7:30 p. m. in his honor.

Rev. E. F. Hayward, rector of Grace church, returned Saturday from Lake Charles, where he attended the ninety-eighth annual meeting of the Episcopal church council. He was honored by selection on three important church groups. These comprise membership on the board of directors of the children's home in New Orleans, membership on the committee on constitution and canons, and also on the committee that is arranging for the centennial of the church in 1938.

Exceptionally good progress of the church in all of its lines of activity were shown in reports rendered at the meeting in Lake Charles.

HOME NURSING COURSES WILL BE GIVEN HERE

A special course in home hygiene and care of the sick will be conducted in Monroe on February 13-19 under the sponsorship of the national Red Cross and the Ouachita parish Red Cross chapter, it was announced Saturday by Mrs. W. C. Holstein, executive secretary.

Nurses from all parts of north Louisiana will be in attendance at the school, which will be conducted at Hotel Virginia. Mrs. Charlotte M. Heilman, with the national Red Cross, will be the teacher, Mrs. Holstein said.

The opening lecture will be for the benefit of the general public. Complete arrangements for the school will be effected by Miss Sybil Renaud, chairman of the Red Cross nursing activities for the state of Louisiana.

The school will be extremely practical and it is believed will provide very definite knowledge of work such as all nurses require constantly.

FORMER MONROE WOMAN SUCCUMBS

Word was received in Monroe Saturday of the death in Glendale, Calif., of Mrs. Nellie Wright Hartsoe, former Monroe woman who taught for many years in the city schools. She was the daughter of J. W. Wright, a well known contractor of Monroe whose death occurred years ago.

After leaving Monroe, Mrs. Hartsoe taught school for many years in California where she was married. Her husband died some years ago and she had retired from school teaching.

Surviving are her two children Dan Hartsoe and Mrs. Dan Stewart, both of California, two sisters, Mrs. J. M.

Cobb, Monroe, Mrs. Bruce Ladner, New Orleans, and a half-sister and half-brother, both residing in the east.

The funeral will be held Monday in the Little Church of the Flowers in Forest Lawn Memorial park, near Los Angeles.

It has been found that ground olive stones have been mixed with some brands of pepper.

HOME OWNERS PROTEST ADVANCE OF DERRICKS

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Home owners of Oklahoma City's northside drew battle lines today for another fight against the advance of oil derricks, already casting long shadows across trim front lawns.

"You thieves can't rob us of our homes," shouted Martin Milam, an attorney, as the city council voted to call a special election on the question of opening the district to oil development.

Through repeated alterations in the city's zoning ordinances, drillers have been moving their rigs deeper into Oklahoma City residential property for years. Wells now dot the vicinity adjacent to the executive mansion of Gov. E. W. Marland.

It was the latter situation that yesterday prompted the state board of affairs to plan "the most beautiful oil field in the world" on state land between the capitol and the mansion. If the land ever is drilled the wells, slush pits and pumps will be hidden under a surface camouflage of shrubs and lawn, the board decided.

BEWARE of false rumors

Some of my opponent's supporters are indulging in a rather vicious whispering campaign in an effort to deceive the voters of Monroe. They are circulating a false rumor that after I take office I will sell the Water and Light plant. This is not only false, but ridiculous. No Public Officer has the power to sell our Utilities; that can only be done by a vote of the people.

I have paid all of the expenses of my campaign up to date and will continue to do so, with the exception of Twenty-five ($25.00) Dollars that one of my boy friends donated and Thirty ($30.00) Dollars that another one donated. The purpose of my candidacy is to let the City's Utilities have a Business Management rather than a Political Management, thereby making possible good water at less cost than the City now pays for poor water; a reduction in electric rates, and white employees. This program cannot possibly be carried out unless we keep our Utilities. They belong to us and we should always keep them and benefit thereby.

Winter Lingers In This Vicinity While Sun
Squanders Warmth Elsewhere; Knitting
Is Popular Pastime

By Eve Bradford

We were sitting around in blissful contentment, with spring dancing ahead of us, a scarf of gold and emerald fluttering from her outstretched palms, when a wintry blast came out of the north and drove us back indoors to await, impatiently, the return of that fickle maiden, spring-time.

To covet is one of the seven deadly sins, but who can be blamed for coveting, with winter lingering like an unwelcome guest, the place in the sun enjoyed by those lucky enough to spend these drab days of late winter on the palm-fringed shores of Florida? Mrs. A. L. Smith and Mrs. Wesley Saunders turned their faces southward with the first flurry of snow and write glowing letters from sunny Florida.

There are those who covet John and Helen Sherrouse that automobile trip to Mexico City where strawberries are ripening in the mellow sunshine and flowers are blooming everywhere. Back last week from this interesting trip, they bring glowing accounts of the paved highway from Monterey through the picturesque Rockies and in peaceful valleys where life is lived on an entirely different plan than our own.

Our theme song has been changed from "June In January" to the old knitting song, "Knit Two, Purl Two." Maybe you thought all your friends were studying black magic last week, with everyone you know murmuring abracadabra-like incantations to themselves. But no, they are simply making the most of these drab, cold days by knitting themselves new sport dresses, sweaters, hats and gloves.

One of our favorite knitters is Irma McHenry, whose fingers simply fly among the colored strands. And what we admire about Irma's results is that each new sport dress is a thing of beauty and style. She was wearing a most delectable shade of blue suit at Marie Bendel's the other day.

Josephine Millsaps was wearing a full-length, navy blue coat and pastel pink blouse the other day, made by her own hands. Every day you can find Josephine poring over brightly-colored yarns, planning a knitted dress for herself or her daughter, Ellen Kent, who is the ideal type for knitted sport frocks.

Society has been reminiscing ever since the President's Birthday ball on the Cherokee terrace, over the glories of the affair. Lois Bernstein, in black chiffon draperies, Adrienne Gaston, in silver lame with rhinestone collar, and Tot Ellis, in silver and black, extended greetings at the entrance to the wigwam through which everyone must pass to gain entrance to the Cherokee village. They were there in the interest of the Junior Charity league, you know. The dance floor was simply ablaze with life and color. Frances Montgomery danced by with a bright green scarf fluttering over her shoulders. Alma Apperson's flower-like face was framed in a high white lace collar. She was dancing with her good looking husband and so happy were they, strangers no doubt took them for bride and groom. They have been married for fifteen years.

Azema Bread Conway wore a lovely frock of garnet velvet, a perfect setting by the way, for a handsome antique necklace and locket. So enamored were we with the exquisite workmanship we could not resist asking about its origin. It seems that the necklace dates back a generation and was given to Mrs. Conway's mother by the latter's father. A wide, flexible gold bracelet of pronounced beauty is also a treasured heirloom in the Bread family and has been handed down from one generation to the other. An exquisite locket in the family for years is now in the possession of Mrs. Bread's granddaughter, Charlotte B. Hamilton.

Henry and Bessie Biedenharn were responsible for a swanky buffet supper at Bethaven before the President's ball. Mrs. John Edmondson, who has been drinking deep at Monroe's hospitable font, was the guest of honor and a very lovely one at that. Scarlet draperies enveloped her slender figure and gardenias at her throat offered a delightful contrast in color.

Have you seen the camera man on DeSiard street? He was standing on the corner last week snapping people and not causing the least bit of trouble. In fact, he did a lot of good, as everybody brightened up and looked happier the minute they spied him. Women laughed a little flustered laugh as if he had paid them a compliment and the men all smiled and said, "Thank you," when he handed them a card. Now and then a big Amazon would give him a cold eye but the little, gentle old people looked so pleased and surprised that anybody wanted to take their picture. One lady coming toward him shook her head like a cow and that was very kind of her because it saved him a film. One person in particular, a friendly smile, the entertainment committee is planning a gala event for Mardi Gras night at Lakeside, so mark this particular date on your calendar and then let nothing interfere with your being on hand.

John Edward Godfrey will be a distinct acquisition to the Lakeside Country club, if one can judge by his extreme popularity. John and Clea are now making their home at Lakeside and whenever you step over the threshold, John Edward will give you the benefit of his warm, friendly smile. Gardens Slumbering

While sitting by your window looking at the little patches of snow, a reminder of last week's snowstorm, there comes a joy in the realization of the ways of nature. The garden looks barren and brown, but gardeners know that life is still there. The soil is mothering bulbs and roots and keeping them warm so that they might live again when springtime comes.

This soil blanket brings necessary moisture and substance all winter while the bulbs take the long rest they must have to gain strength and vigor for growth out into the air when the spring sun warms the ground. Many of our most attractive plants must have this cold and long rest for their well-being. Plants such as the peony will not grow well in the south, or in California. All of the little bulbs made up of waxy layers of stored up food, are snuggling down under their deep covering of soil and protecting the tiny flower buds which are already formed in their very center. The Snow Drop and Scilla, with their tiny bulbs no bigger than the end of a woman's finger, need only the first warmth to bring the white or blue blossoms up through the brown earth.

When the first green tips of these come up the gardener should put on a pair of old shoes and place a layer of clean straw, not more than half an inch deep, or, better, a layer of brown peat moss around close under them so as to keep the rains from splashing the mud onto their dainty blossoms. All through the early spring, as leaves of each variety of bulb—crocus, narcissus and tulip—come up, this precaution should be taken.

In the winter, while watching the

HASTINGS The South's Seedsmen

Included In Circle

Monroe's feminine intelligentsia is delighted with the extension of the literary of the Louisiana State University Book circle to include this city in the course of lectures on "Books and Their Authors," offered by Miss Annette Duchene. The new course will begin on the sixteenth of March.

Literary club presidents of this city and every city reached by the lecture course are requested to communicate with Miss Duchene, general extension division of L. S. U., immediately if members are interested in enrolling for the class. The time and day for the classes to be held and the number in each group interested in the course should be sent Miss Duchene.

The course was begun last fall in a few cities and proved so popular that it is now being extended, university authorities point out. The classes were offered largely through women's organizations and these groups will again cooperate in the second course. Miss Duchene asks also that the time and date of club meetings be sent her.

The 10-hour lectures in the course will be given once every two weeks for a period of five months. The lectures are divided into two half-hour periods, the first half-hour being given to a discussion of the life and works of an outstanding writer, and the second half-hour to reviews of three books that fall in the group known as current "best sellers." During the first half-hour period, the lecturer will be influenced by current happenings in the literary world in her choice of subject.

As an alternative for the first half-hour, the class may choose to confine the talk to "The Writers of the South," Miss Duchene points out. Choice of books to be discussed in the second half-hour is governed by reports from leading public libraries and best sellers of the United States as to the books most in demand, judged by circulation and sales.

The course is designed as a lecture course, with no questions asked of class members or papers required. It is not extended for credit.

"The L. S. U. Book circle is devised as a means of extending an adult educational service to the women of Louisiana by Louisiana State University," Dr. J. H. Griffith, director of the university general extension division, announced. "It's purpose is to afford Louisiana's women further opportunities to read and discuss worthwhile books. Results from the first course offered are sufficient evidence of the general interest of Louisiana women in books and their authors. Requests have come for the extension of the course to every corner of the state and to Mississippi."

The Louisiana State University library will arrange to extend to each class a minimum of 15 books in the "best seller" class each month at no cost to the club. The Louisiana State University library will supplement this collection with standard volumes that are being considered during the first half-hour lecture at no additional expense.

Since the majority of women consulted have expressed a desire to discontinue the classes during the summer months, the course begun the middle of March will be discontinued during July and August, and completed by November 1.

Miss Duchene, who will conduct the classes, holds the degrees of bachelor of arts and master of arts from Louisiana State University, and the degree of bachelor of journalism from the Pulitzer school of journalism of Columbia university. Her courses have included the study of books and authors under John Erskine, Walter D. Dore, Carl van Doren, critic; Walter B. Pitkin, author of "Life Begins at Forty," and Allan St. Clair Wells, an editor of the New York Times book section.

She wrote special features for the New York Herald-Tribune, and was a contributor to a reporter by the Times-Picayune for two years. During that time, she served for several months as a book reviewer for "Literature and Life." For the past two years she has been assigned to the university staff as publicity director and editorial assistant for the Southern Review and later for the Southern Review.

The extension department points out that it is urgent that club presidents and individuals interested in such a course contact Miss Duchene as soon as possible so that a working schedule can be arranged. Miss Duchene plans to make an organization trip and contact as many clubs as possible before the first lecture is held.

Added Attraction

Mr. Jackson Purdy of Houston, Texas, who is directing the Little Theater production, "The Trial of Mary Dugan," by the Little Theater, is responsible for a unique feature introduced for the first time in Monroe.

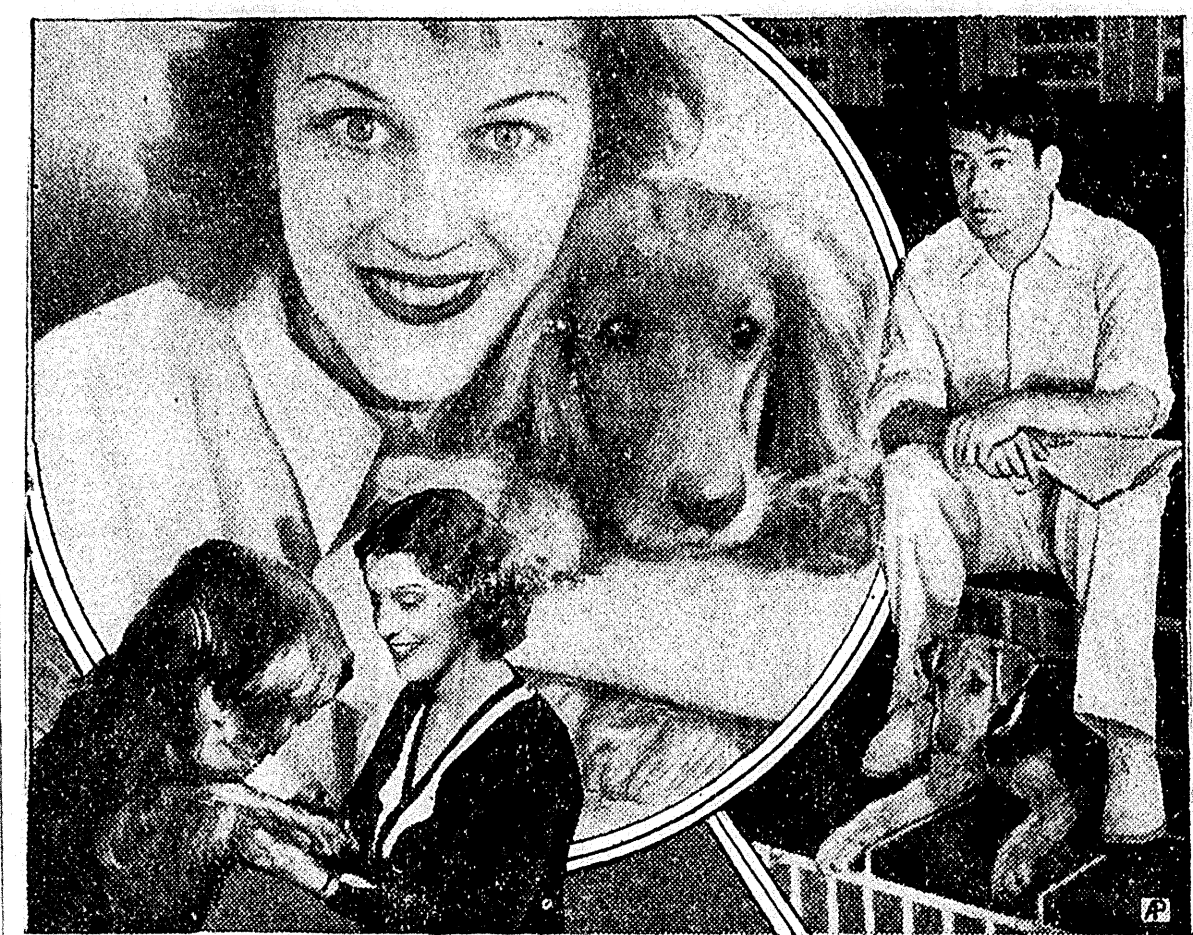

In the corridors of the courthouse, a "one-man show" will be staged by Mrs. Henry Mayo, before the rise of the curtain at eight-fifteen o'clock. Mrs. Mayo, one of Monroe's outstanding artists, was prevailed upon by Mr. Purdy to give an exhibition of her paintings at this time. It is customary in other cities to hold these exhibits in conjunction with Little Theater plays and they have received an ovation in every instance. No doubt Mrs. Mayo's initial "one-man show" will be greeted in similar manner Tuesday night.

A group of twenty pictures in oil, including landscapes and still life, will be shown at this time.

Mrs. Mayo began her early art career and received her splendid foundation under the supervision of Stella Vinson, local artist. Later, she became affiliated with the Monroe Sketch club and received splendid instruction from Amos Armstrong. Since then, she has experienced years of hard work under such renowned artists as Adrian Brewer of Little Rock, Ark. She also was a pupil of Marie Hull of Jackson, Miss., who has won fame and honor on two continents. Mrs. Mayo was also privileged to study for a brief period under Virginia Cole of Provincetown, Mass.

Mrs. Mayo has a most distinctive style, using a heavy brush with clear, vivid colors.

Any Dog Goes In Hollywood Circles Now, Just So It Differs From Your Neighbor's

By Hubbard Keavy

HOLLYWOOD—The historians who have written of Hollywood dogs have ignored an important phase in life here. They have talked about trends and cycles and the effects of trends and cycles.

Some day someone is going to write about trends in dogs and what they have done to the picture business. Only fleas love dogs more than actors. But a flea doesn't care about a dog's breed. He likes a mongrel just as well as a West Highland terrier. An actor doesn't. His taste changes with the years.

Old-timers say that 1913 was the year of the Newfoundland. "Intolerance" was filmed in 1916, but that also was the year of the Pekingese. So were the following two years, the war years, when it was best to have a dog that didn't eat too much. "The Four Horsemen" was filmed in 1921. The year of the Russian wolfhound. The police dog, or German shepherd, was popular from 1925-28. Nineteenth-century was the year of the fox terrier and 1931 was the year of the Scottie.

Times change. Dogs change. Hollywood changes. From now on, years cannot be put down as the year of the Saluki or the Samoyed or the Keeshonden. A change has come over actors and actresses. They may follow the leader in clothes and picture plots, but in dogs they are becoming independent.

There are more different breeds of dogs in filmland than I knew existed. Paul Muni, for instance, has airdales—just plain airdales. He doesn't show them because he thinks shows are cruel and during the filming of "The Story of Louis Pasteur" he personally made certain that every dog had the best food and care. William Dieterle, the director, has the rarest dog in Hollywood, a Prince Charles Spaniel, which he brought from Germany. It is a tiny animal, much like a Pekingese, Anita Louise and Jeannette MacDonald have sheep dogs of the English variety.

Genevieve Tobin and Charles Ruggles breed West Highland white terriers and Harold Lloyd prefers Great Danes. Dick Powell, shade of 1925—has a police dog. Ginger Rogers is old-fashioned—she has a collie. Ann Dvorak has two cocker spaniels.

The list might go on almost indefinitely. Everybody in Hollywood would like to have an exclusive breed of dogs, but nature didn't make it possible to satisfy actors' vanity to that extent.

Book Club Meets

The Welcome Book club met Wednesday afternoon at the Y. W. C. A., where an interesting program was presented.

Mrs. C. H. Dunaway reviewed "Grandmother Brown's Hundred Years," by Harriet Crown Brown, the wife of Grandmother Brown's young son. She lives in Washington, D. C., where her husband, Herbert Daniel Brown, is chief of the United States bureau of efficiency. On the occasion of the celebration of Grandmother Brown's ninety-ninth birthday Harriet Brown decided to write the life history of her mother-in-law. She was greatly nettled when a friend said, "Why what has she ever done that is great?"

She replied, "I want to honor a woman not esteemed great, one who has had the common fate of all pioneer women. To read of her may comfort other women, who devotedly, but more or less rebelliously, are doing the duty that nature points out for them."

Grandmother Brown tells in a simple way the story of her life. She gives facts as they came, and does not load without the handicap of a pre-conceived philosophy, which often warps the statements of historical writers.

This American mother, living from 1827 to 1927, saw a century of stirring events. She helped settle and civilize the western territory. She experienced the Civil Spanish-American and the World wars. And through suffering in the recurrent depression periods, she knew the results of such prosperity as this country recently boasted.

Grandmother Brown stands forth as a symbol of the growth of America, giving an account of every day life of the work, play, and philosophy of an intelligent, courageous laywoman. The kind of life that has been duplicated, except in length, by many in this country. Her wisdom in life was her home and her family. "I have always felt this way," said Grandmother Brown, "that it is a woman's duty to make a home and teach her children to vote the Republican ticket."

The book has little to do with public affairs. But it is a very interesting contribution to the study of an important phase of American life, which has fashioned out of a wilderness the greatest country in the world.

Mrs. Dudley Stone's paper on "Julia Newberry's Diary" was highly interesting. The diary is of great value in recording the history of Chicago, as most formal records were burned in the great fire of 1871.

"Julia Newberry's Diary" is the journal of two years of a young girl's life, a young girl whose roots were so deeply embedded in Chicago soil that, though the diary quickly takes us from the familiar background of what all older Chicagoans remember as "the Newberry lot" to the more exploited one of Europe, the reader keeps with its young author a wistful nostalgia for foreign scenes. Her story is told with a felicity of phrase and as accuracy of observation which is almost incredible in a young girl from 15 to 17 years. The diary reads like a novelist's notebook and it is possible that the untimely death of Julia Newberry may have deprived Chicago of a Victorian writer of fiction.

The following members were present: Mrs. J. Norman Coon, Mrs. Dan Dennett, Mrs. C. H. Dunaway, Mrs. E. C. Gibson, Mrs. V. S. Garnett, Mrs. John Leist, Mrs. C. S. Gausche, Mrs. D. Petty, Mrs. L. Oyster, Mrs. Dudley Stone, Mrs. J. W. Treadwell and Mrs. F. J. Smith.

Benefit Is Scheduled For 19th Of February

Proceeds To Be Used By Association To Help Defray Expenses Of Program For Needy Children

Final plans for a spaghetti supper to be sponsored by the St. Matthew's Parochial school Parent-Teacher association of the Louisiana branch of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers on February 19 were made at the January meeting of the group.

Miss C. McStravick, who has charge of the St. Matthew's cafeteria, reported at the meeting that during the month she had served 141 dinners and given milk to 108 needy children. She also acknowledged the gift of a refuse container for the cafeteria from Mrs. Dick Daughtry and a double-boiler from the Parent-Teacher association.

Printed slips listing what is needed to fully carry on the work in the cafeteria were distributed to children in the school during the week and taken to their parents in the hope that they would consider the needs of the cafeteria.

"When the Banjo Plays," a two part chorus, was given as entertainment by the high school department. Opening and closing prayers were offered by Sister M. Stanislaus, principal.

A meeting of the study group of the association was held preliminary to the regular meeting.

Entertainment will be held at the school cafeteria on the night of the February 19. Four entrance prizes will be awarded, two to gentlemen and one each to ladies and children. There will be music throughout the evening.

The proceeds from the supper will be used to defray the expenses of the P.-T. A. in its program for underprivileged children.

Fairbanks P.-T. A.

FAIRBANKS, La., Feb. 1.—(Special) —"How Home Economics Benefit the Home" was the theme of a program given by Mrs. O. J. Ham at the January meeting of the Fairbanks Parent-Teacher association of the Louisiana branch of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers. Three phases of the subject were discussed by Mrs. Ham, Miss Frances Miller and Mrs. G. B. Wilson.

Plans for the Founders day program, which will be held here February 27, were also made. The Founders day program is being worked out with care, in view of the fact that Mrs. A. L. Smith of Winfield, state president, will be the guest of honor on that day.

Committee reports were also heard, and a nominating committee was named. The committee, which must report in March, is composed of Mrs. Howard Hunter, chairman, Mrs. Vincent Marsala and T. V. Simmons.

Entertainment for the program consisted of a reading by Jean Parsons of the sixth grade and group singing. The rooms of Mrs. Morgan and Mrs. Carter tied for the honor of having the most parents present.

Throng At Ball

A brilliant, pleasure-seeking throng danced to the lilting strains of the Frances hotel orchestra on the Cherokee terrace Thursday night, when members of the Junior Charity league sponsored President Roosevelt's fifth annual birthday ball.

Patriotism flamed high among the guests, who endeavored to show, by attending the ball, their allegiance to their president and to his work in establishing a fund to care for children of the nation suffering from infantile paralysis. A percentage of the funds derived from the ball went to the Junior Charity league, and will be turned in carrying on the work of their main project, the baby clinic at St. Francis sanitarium.

Mrs. Milling Bernstein, president of the league, wearing a smart black chiffon evening model with crimson roses at her throat, stood at the entrance to the terrace to welcome the guests. She was assisted by Mrs. Nathan Gaston, a lovely figure in white lace evening model with corsage of red radiance roses, and Mrs. Prioleau Ellis, in a lovely silver blouse with black floor length skirt.

Tables outlining the dance floor were occupied throughout the evening by groups of friends, many of whom entertained earlier in the evening at dinners and buffet suppers.

The largest party was arranged by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Biedenharn, who entertained earlier in the evening at supper at their home complimentary to Mrs. John Edmondson of Birmingham.

At 12 o'clock Mr. Frederick Williamson was introduced and made a few appropriate remarks on the significance of the occasion and then called upon Governor James A. Noe to draw the number for the presentation of the handsome birthday cake won by Dr. Neil Buie. Spontaneous applause greeted the governor, who was making his first public appearance in this city after becoming chief executive of Louisiana.

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Huey motored to New Orleans yesterday morning to attend the ball of Osiris, over which Governor James A. Noe ruled as king. Mrs. Noe and their daughter, Gay, were members of the queen's court.

Mrs. William Quigleys entertained a few friends a luncheon complimentary to Mrs. S. W. Bonnell of Indianapolis, Ind., Thursday, Ladies' day, at Lakeside Country club.

Crowd At Club

The spacious lounge and sun porch of Lakeside Country club was thronged with luncheon guests and bridge enthusiasts on Ladies' day, with several small parties arranged by various hostesses creating additional interest.

The luncheon tables were aglow with spring blossoms, with Mrs. Biedenharn and Mrs. William Quigleys, chairman of the entertainment committee, presiding during the luncheon hour.

Bridge was introduced later and offered interesting diversion during the afternoon. As customary each week, handsome decks of cards were presented each table of guests.

Members present were Mmes. R. L. Davis, D. V. Smith, A. Collins, A. K. Kilpatrick, M. S. Biedenharn, C. C. Boardman, J. H. Dorman, E. M. Eckhart, Elliott Thompson, C. S. Foster, R. R. Beaman, S. W. Mrs. Lewis Slater was responsible for an interesting paper on "Religion and Philosophy of Germany."

Mrs. Rodriguez, assisted by her two lovely children, Mary Gertrude and William, Jr., served her guests delicious chicken a la king, a salad course and a variety of sweet confections.

Mrs. James A. Noe Becomes First Lady Of State Of Louisiana

Monroe Woman Well Qualified For Place

Friends Are Pleased By Honor That Befalls Local Resident; Executive Mansion Will Be Made Bright

Old friends are rejoicing over Mrs. James A. Noe's position as first lady of the state, the highest honor Louisiana can bestow upon one of her fair daughters.

Friends, most of them life-long, are glad that the executive mansion in Baton Rouge will radiate with the warmth of her personality and re-sound with the laughter of Governor and Mrs. Noe's two splendid children, Gay, a golden-haired lovely girl of 12, and James A. Jr., a handsome dark-eyed lad of 7.

Mrs. Noe, Anna Gray to her friends, is not pretty in a conventional sense—but most attractive from a cultural, intellectual standpoint. She is clever, distinctive, always well groomed and glowing with an inner fire that shines in her beautiful brown eyes. Perhaps it is the sheer joy of living that the typifies, or maybe it is the open-handed warmth of friendship she has to give that makes her such an extraordinary person. She has a certain air of distinction, the kind of pictorial effectiveness that makes strangers ask, "Who is that interesting looking woman?" Always interested in her friends, always alert and vibrant, poised, sure, she is ever surrounded by people in every walk of life, who are seemingly caught in the reflection of her own exhilarating mood.

When Governor Noe takes up his abode in the executive mansion he will have at his side a woman molded by ancestry and life for the wife of Louisiana's highest official. The wheel of the Great Potter shaped Mrs. Noe for the duties that will befall her during the next four months.

Utterly unspoiled by success, Mrs. Noe moves among her old friends with the graciousness and independence and adherence to a principle which should stand her in good stead when she takes up her position as first lady of the state.

She is easily moved by nobility among the needy, and in many cases has discovered people whose need was great but whose pride prevented them from asking aid. Mrs. Noe gave the assistance needed but not through the ordinary channels of charity. Help was offered through the broad, flowing river of love and understanding.

The beggar at the back door is given almost as much consideration as the guest in the drawing room. Old family servants carry out the instructions of their mistress and when unfortunate ask for alms they are never turned away empty handed. This has been going on for years, even during the lean days when Governor and Mrs. Noe were blazing their trail through their own little wilderness.

Mrs. Noe once made the remark, "When we give in like proportion to what we have, then we know the full joy of living."

In the Noe household in this city, the hearth fires will continue to burn, lights will shine forth and the hospitable doors will continue to swing wide, even though the family is away. Governor Noe's kindly mother will carry on during their absence, and when the family returns in four months, the threads will be picked up where they were hastily dropped when the summons came from the state capitol. It would be hard, after all, for Mrs. Noe to leave Monroe, where the roots of her family for many generations were tied in the very soil and traditions. She has created her own special niche in the hearts of the people in this community, where she has walked like an administering angel through the lower strata and has entertained people in her own sphere with lavish hand.

Mrs. Noe is, in a measure, responsible for her husband's success. Sincerely confident of his ability and with a faith that moves mountains she swept every obstacle aside. When she speaks of his success, her enthusiasm knows no bounds. It is a fire that flames high and not something drummed up to suit the occasion. All through her married life she has offered all the thoughtful planning intelligence, can give, and shoulder to shoulder with the man of her choice, she has assisted in the accomplishment of each daily task.

Deeply religious, she has worked in church circles with unfailing devotion. A class of young people in the First Methodist church Sunday school grew to such proportions, due to her sincere efforts, gentle influence and personal contact, that it was necessary to divide it into two classes. Now it is known as the Germany-Noe class.

The Young Women's Christian association has thrived and benefited by her untiring efforts. Considerable praise is due her for the aid rendered this association during the difficult days of the depression. When the annual drive takes place, Mrs. Noe gathers her forces together and, like all good generals, plans her campaign. Naturally, success always crowns her efforts.

Mrs. Noe is a rare type of woman, endowed with unusual discernment. She has had work of real value to do and without which this community would feel the poorer.

As is always the case, whenever a man gains the coveted peaks, there is a woman by his side, who offers daily encouragement, understanding and blessed assurance. The path ahead, dark with obstacles, is made bright and smooth by the faith, love and fearlessness of some good woman.

CHAPTER XXVI
Hope had burned high when Dana and Scott fled their challenge at destiny by standing before a minister and promising, in singing tones, "for better, for worse."

Dana told herself that things must surely grow better soon. For of course they couldn't be worse. The problem of living without a bank account seemed absolutely unsolvable.

It was bad enough, Scott said, to allow Dana to make petty adjustments during the first few months of their marriage. But the time came when even petty adjustments weren't enough. More rigid economies faced them.

Opportunity appeared to be knocking at Scott's door when Dr. Morton decided to leave the city. Dr. Morton's suite was in a building that housed 10 of the city's outstanding physicians. Each had his own suite, and shared, proportionately, the upkeep of the building.

The rental of Dr. Morton's suite was considerably more than the cost of the extremely simple quarters Scott was occupying. But Scott knew the value of having his office in the more impressive building. Then, too, he would have the use of X-ray equipment, an indispensable adjunct.

Scott moved. His new office adjoined that of Dr. Osborne, dean of the city's surgeons.

But what could he do? If a mother brought in her small son, and an infected appendix was revealed, there was nothing to do but take it out. Or maybe the patient was a pale little girl with a bad cough. There must be a careful examination to discover the trouble. It might be lungs, bronchial trouble, or a sinus condition. Again it would be an adult, a harassed man of woman who had waited years—sometimes too long—because there was no money for a doctor.

There was no money now. But the news spread that young Dr. Stanley was practicing. And it was remembered how good his father had been, how generous and patient.

Every doctor, Scott knew, had a percentage of patients who couldn't pay. That was one of the hazards of the profession. But the equalization peating the old phrase slowly, "is the hardest, Grandmother. Scott has all kinds of obligations. Next year we'll be able to have more and play more."

"Fiddlesticks! If he has so many obligations, he shouldn't have married. He had no business dumping you in a kitchen and expecting you to wear old clothes."

"He didn't dump me in a kitchen." Dana's face was flushed now. "He insisted on having a cook, but I wouldn't have one. And he bothers as much as you do about my clothes."

"You're a mighty big goose if you don't get some new ones," Mrs. Cameron said. "If there's any class of women in the world who have competition, it's doctors' wives. If Paula Long were married to Scott, you wouldn't see her parading so many conscientious scruples."

"Paula has her own money," Dana said. Then, because her grandmother had made her very angry, she retorted, "I can't imagine Paula married to Scott under any circumstances."

"You can't? Well, he ran around with her a mighty long while."

"That's why," Dana flashed back. "He went with her a mighty long while. If he had been in the least in love with her, he'd have married her."

"But the grass in the other pasture always looks greener," Mrs. Cameron said shortly.

"I'm not easily frightened," Dana said, adding "and I trust Scott fully. There isn't any room in my heart for suspicion."

Mrs. Cameron said, in an injured tone, "I wasn't trying to make you suspicious, Dana. I was trying to persuade you to buy something new. I say again the man isn't made who doesn't admire a well-dressed woman. And no man is proud of a dowdy woman, even though she's the best wife in the world."

When the door had closed Dana wiped tears from her eyes. Why were people always prating about dowdiness and shabbiness? She wouldn't believe she looked that way as long as her clothes were neat and well-pressed and she kept herself immaculately groomed.

Scott and Mrs. Cameron almost bumped into each other on the stair. Mrs. Cameron had come charging along with her head bent, in one of her towering rages. She spoke curtly.

At the stair landing, she stopped and flung upward at him, her eyes cold and unforgiving: "Dana seems to think being married is some excuse for being a martyr. I wish you'd talk some sense into her."

Scott fitted his key into the lock soberly.

So the old lady thought he was taking all the shine and sparkle out of life for Dana. Well, maybe she was right, at that.

Shirtmaker Fashion

PATTERNS 2659 AND 2658

Everyone's saying it—saying that the shirtmaker's far and away the most popular type of frock for spring, and the newest versions are even more intriguing than those you wore and loved last year. When a soft V-neck and flaring sleeves top as charming a style as pattern 2659, it's bound to win a woman's fancy, for that certain softness is especially flattering in printed crepe. "Action" is the cry of shirtmaker pattern 2658, easiest and newest of make-it-yourself fashions, whose tailored simplicity is best translated in silk shirting or neck-tie silk print. Note its smart "backing." Pattern 2659 is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32. Size 16 takes 3 1/2 yards 39 inch fabric. Price 15c.

Pattern 2658 is available in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32. Size 16 takes 3 1/4 yards 36 inch fabric. Price 15c.

MAKE IT FOR HOME OR RESORT WEAR

Here's spring magic—in a charming frock that fashion endorses your making right now! Fine for cruise or southern resort wear. But equally inspiring for many-occasion wear in your own home circle. Double collars and two sets of pockets give this frock an extra-jazzy, distinctive air. Making the top collar and tie of contrasting material is very tricky. As shown here, the design is interpreted in yellow silk crepe with white dots—top collar and tie of white silk crepe. Other suitable fabrics would be any silk or synthetic print, striped silk or cotton shirting, and plain or printed linen. Pattern X2547 is available in sizes 14 to 20 and 32 to 44. Size 16 takes 4 yards 39 inch fabric, and 3-8 yard contrast.

STYLE FORECAST FOR SPRING

as told to Morning World fashion editor by FIELD'S manager, Mr. Blumenthal

(By The Fashion Editor)

Everywhere you go, everywhere you turn you hear suits, suits, suits. Suits for morning, afternoon and whether you are reconciled to the idea yet or not . . . suits for evening. The morning ones are strictly tailored; the afternoon ones fitted yet feminine and for evening they are trimly a la Tuxedo.

Fashion says, "you must have one of the new swaggers for spring" . . . and the new fish tail or three-quarter length coats are the high notes of the season. In gay plaids, checks and mixtures in clever colors.

In dresses, crisp white pique is being used extensively. It appears not only on sport frocks but those designed for cocktails and dinner as well. You will find it used for cuffs, vestees and flowers which lend a gay spring air.

Printed frocks of brilliant hues on dark grounds are exceedingly smart and so cheerful under the new topcoats. Touches of white pique, contrasting colored silks, flowers, patent leather and suede trims give you a hint of what is newest in spring dresses.

The Lay-Away Plan

Any spring fashion you want . . . can be purchased on Field's convenient lay-a-way plan. A small deposit at the time you select your garment and balance when wanted!

are warm . . . and alive. Yellows are extremely good; egg, butter, maize and lemon. Blues, greys and the reddish colors are also greatly in vogue.

In hats it's the new flattened crown tip and thrusting twist in felts. Man tailored Fedoras again come into their own to go with the sweeping tide of suits. For those who desire a touch of coquetry are the flower-trimmed small hats. Some are of shiny straw, rolled close to the head and have veils as well.

All in all it is "Good-Bye Winter and Hello Spring" and there is no spring tonic so good for a woman's nerves as to see herself reflected from her favorite mirror in a brand new outfit.

Colbert And MacMurray Starred In 'The Bride Comes Home'

New Hit Now Playing At Paramount

Robert Young Included In Stellar Cast Of Screen Romance

CLAUDETTE COLBERT and Fred MacMurray, seen together for the first time in "The Gilded Lily," are back in another of Paramount's sprightly modern screen romances, "The Bride Comes Home," which plays today at the Paramount theater.

It is a crisp, invigorating picture of two young people forced to battle one another at the slightest provocation. Small attention is paid to elaborate settings, for the producers had a story to work with—a story that is full of entertainment from the first shot to the last fade-out.

Miss Colbert is cast as the daughter of William Collier, Sr., a former man of wealth who has fallen on evil days. The two of them are down to a diet of beans as the story opens, and Miss Colbert decides it is time she went to work.

Her childhood sweetheart, Robert Young, has just inherited three million dollars and for a long time has been asking her to marry him. He is addicted to the bottle, however, and his proclivity for getting into fights makes it necessary for a bodyguard to accompany him in his roamings. The bodyguard, a former newspaperman, is Fred MacMurray, whose right fist solves many an embarrassing problem for his youthful employer.

The young millionaire establishes a magazine and makes MacMurray its editor. Then Miss Colbert shows up, seeking a job. Young appoints her assistant to MacMurray and the two have no more than met before they are in a fight.

MacMurray professes to despise his unwelcome assistant until he learns that she's really working because she needs the money. Then they fall in love. They decide to get married. They scream epithets at each other by the hour and the simple wedding they had planned is passed up in favor of a beautiful clash of temperament.

Miss Colbert, after breaking off with MacMurray, finally consents to marry Young and they start for Crown Point, the "Greenia Green" outside Chicago. The high-spirited Miss Colbert tries valiantly to pick a fight with Young, but he is too easy-going and won't even argue with her. She WANTS to fight.

Meanwhile . . . Well, exciting things are yet to happen. The marrying squire, played by Edgar Kennedy, who himself is endowed with a remarkable capacity for fighting, provides Miss Colbert with an opponent almost worthy of her tongue-lashing talents.

The combination of Miss Colbert, Fred MacMurray and Robert Young is a happy one and especially in this story. The entire cast, in fact, deserves credit for one of the sprightliest, most amusing screen romances of the year.

It's the screen's grandest romantic threesome, on a battle of strong wills and stronger loves.

Conqueror of half of the world and the fiercest lover of the ages was Richard the Lion Hearted. In Cecil B. De Mille's "The Crusades," coming to the Capitol Thursday, you will see Henry Wilcoxon as Richard the Lion Hearted, who matched his strength and sword of lightning against the savage armies of the East and the fierce fury of eleven kings to surrender all for the heart of the lovely Princess Borengaria, portrayed by Loretta Young.

John Howard and lovely Mary Taylor add romance to the new Ben Hecht-Charles MacArthur film satire, "Soak the Rich," which plays at the Capitol theater this coming Friday. All in the spirit of fun, this famous team of writers, Hecht and MacArthur, have written a most entertaining and appealing story combining excitement and thrills with a charming love story and a satirical tirade against today's social and economic unrest. One will find it a laugh riot.

THE OUTSTANDING PASSION PLAY NOW SHOWING IN AMERICA

will be presented at First Methodist Church, South, Monday, February 3rd at two programs—one at 7:15 p. m.—one at 9:00 p. m.

A SCENE FROM THE ABOVE PLAY

A FEW NOTABLE FACTS ABOUT THIS PASSION PLAY

This is a motion picture twenty-eight hundred feet in length; taking two hours to present, and shows the "LIFE OF CHRIST" from the nativity to the ascension.

This entire motion picture was filmed in the "HOLY LAND AND EGYPT."

The entire program is accompanied by some of the world's greatest sacred music. This music was especially arranged by Professor Phillip Ferraro, who was Professor of Music at the Naples Conservatory of Music.

This program has been presented in some of America's best churches and has won the profound admiration and approval of every audience that has seen it. After seeing it, some have pronounced it as even GREATER AND MORE ELABORATE THAN THE OTHER AMERICAN STAGE PLAYS.

THE SHEPHERD SCENE, CHRIST WALKING ON THE WATER, AND THE LAST SUPPER have been pronounced the most beautiful and the most impressive ever witnessed.

This Passion Play is non-sectarian in its presentation and is equally enjoyed by all, regardless of religious affiliation.

The ascension is so realistic that the audience sits transfixed with awe in astonishment and reverence as the risen Lord disappears in the heavens. A small crowd will be charged when this is presented at:

FLYERS SALUTE RAIL FLYER

In the days before aviation, the world flyer meant only one thing to the public—the speedy through trains that shuttled between the rail termini of the country. When the earthbound flyer, the "Florida Special," neared the end of its 500th trip between New York and Miami, three sportsmen flyers took to the air in their planes in an aerial salute to form this striking picture.

NEW SEMESTER TO OPEN MONDAY

Tech Officials Face Crowded
Conditions As Result
Of Fire

RUSTON, La., Feb. 1.—(Special)—

As Louisiana Tech faces the opening of a new semester Monday, officials of the institution are sympathizing with the old lady who lived in a shoe and had so many children—but the college faculty members know what to do, while the old lady didn't.

A classroom problem exists because of the burning of the administration building on January 6. The main hall, oldest and largest of the campus structures, included 19 classrooms in addition to numerous administrative offices. While architects already have drawn up blueprints for a building to replace the one destroyed by fire, the entire college will continue to be seriously handicapped until the new hall is erected.

The registrar's office has handled the task of removing departments formerly in the administration building, and places have been found for all classes to meet in other campus halls. As a result, no classes previously scheduled for the new semester will be cancelled because of lack of a meeting place, it has been announced. One or two classes, however, will not be offered because of the difficulty in securing textbooks destroyed by the fire.

Indicating the situation caused by the crowded condition, the registrar's office reported, for instance, that bookkeeping classes would share tables with students in the home economics department. The typewriting classes will be taught in the engineering building. Even the book-stack room in the basement of the library building is to be used as a makeshift classroom. Many of the college classes will meet in the teacher-training building, in which the elementary and high school pupils are taught.

During the registration period continuing through Tuesday, all offices will be housed in the library building. The matriculation schedule is as follows: Seniors, 8-10 a.m. Monday; Juniors, 10-12 a.m. Monday; Sophomores, 1-5 p.m. Monday; and Freshmen, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday.

BAPTIST GROUP PLANS ENCAMPMENT AT OLLA

JENA, La., Feb. 1.—(Special)—Directors of the northeast Louisiana Baptist encampment, composed of L. T. Hastings of Monroe, president; B. E. Zeigler of Olla, treasurer; E. M. Daffin, secretary; John L. Dodge, of Jonesboro; B. C. Land, Winnfield; R. L. Bridges, Good Pine; and John Foster, Pollock, held a meeting at the camp grounds in Olla and made arrangements for holding the encampment from July 7 through July 17. The directors made arrangements to reseat the tabernacle with new seats and to paint all buildings that are not now painted. A committee was appointed to draw up the program for this year and the program will be announced within a short time.

JUDGE SHELL DELAYS ACTION IN HOG THEFT CASE IN COURT HERE

Three men who entered pleas of guilty in district court here Saturday to a charge of stealing a hog must wait until February 13 for Judge J. T. Shell's action in their case. Despite the fact that Martin Max, Rudolph Mason and Andrew Petty pleaded guilty, Judge Shell said there was lack of evidence to prove their guilt conclusively and ordered that the case be heard further on regular misdemeanor day. Two of the defendants, who had been in jail, were released on their own recognizance. The other was already at liberty under bond.

According to the story told by one of the men, the hog was believed to be his at the time he killed it. He said several of his hogs had wandered away a number of months ago, and that when some hogs appeared at his place, he thought one of them was his strayed hog and killed it. The other men were said merely to have helped in butchering the hog.

A. H. Gerson was given a jail sentence of two months and a fine of $25 and costs or 30 additional days, with the two months suspended upon payment of fine and costs, on a charge of wilfully killing a hog.

Sentence of Joe Renwick, Jr., which had formerly been fixed at 30 days in jail, was amended to three months in jail and a fine of $50 and costs or 30 additional days, with the three months suspended upon payment of fine and costs.

When first discovered and used as a beverage, tea cost from $30 to $50 a pound.

Here's what you can do: Slow down—obey traffic and speed rules—keep your car in good mechanical condition and perhaps you can save at least ONE of those 70 lives. It's worth trying.

Colbert And MacMurray Starred In 'The Bride Comes Home'

New Hit Now Playing At Paramount

Robert Young Included In Stellar Cast Of Screen
Romance

CLAUDETTE COLBERT and Fred MacMurray, seen together for the first time in "The Gilded Lily," are back in another of Paramount's sprightly modern screen romances, "The Bride Comes Home," which plays today at the Paramount theater.

It is a crisp, invigorating picture of two young people forced to battle one another at the slightest provocation. Small attention is paid to elaborate settings, for the producers had a story to work with—a story that is full of entertainment from the first shot to the last fade-out.

Miss Colbert is cast as the daughter of William Collier, Sr., a former man of wealth who has fallen on evil days. The two of them are down to a diet of beans as the story opens, and Miss Colbert decides it is time she went to work.

Her childhood sweetheart, Robert Young, has just inherited three million dollars and for a long time has been asking her to marry him. He is addicted to the bottle, however, and his proclivity for getting into fights makes it necessary for a bodyguard to accompany him in his roamings. The bodyguard, a former newspaperman, is Fred MacMurray, whose right fist solves many an embarrassing problem for his youthful employer.

The young millionaire establishes a magazine and makes MacMurray its editor. Then Miss Colbert shows up, seeking a job. Young appoints her assistant to MacMurray and the two have no more than met before they are in a fight.

MacMurray professes to despise his unwelcome assistant until he learns that she's really working because she needs the money. Then they fall in love. They decide to get married. They scream epithets at each other by the hour and the simple wedding they had planned is passed up in favor of a beautiful clash of temperaments.

Miss Colbert, after breaking off with MacMurray, finally consents to marry Young and they start for Crown Point, the "Gretchen Green" outside Chicago. The high-spirited Miss Colbert tries valiantly to pick a fight with Young, but he is too easy-going and won't ever argue with her. She WANTS to fight.

Meanwhile, exciting things are yet to happen. The marrying squire, played by Edwar Trevor, who himself is endowed with a remarkable capacity for fighting, provides Miss Colbert with an opponent almost worthy of her tongue-lashing talents.

The combination of Miss Colbert, Fred MacMurray and Robert Young is a happy one and especially in this story. The entire cast, in fact, deserves credit for one of the sprightliest, most amusing screen romances of the year.

Chan Film Is Feature At Capitol

Warner Oland Heads Big Cast
Of New Mystery Thrill Picture

SHIVER and gasp as you may have at the previous pictures of the Charlie Chan series, you will find new and unexpected thrills in "Charlie Chan's Secret," as Warner Oland unravels a baffling murder mystery in the Fox picture which opens at the Capitol theater today.

Weaving his web in a house of death, the bland Chinese detective solves San Francisco's most baffling murder mystery in this new picture, while he defies a band of sinister killers. Suspense, thrills, surprise fill every scene of this action-packed story from beginning to end.

Chan first picks up the trail of the missing man at a shipwreck. Then he flies to San Francisco where he is caught up with the man's family, a strange group who dabble in spiritualism, and no one of whom desires the missing man's return.

At a spiritualist seance, the heir is suddenly discovered dead with a knife through his back. And although Chan knows that he has the wildest criminals of his career to deal with, he immediately sets about tracking them down.

Before the solution of the crime is reached, others fall victim, and Chan himself narrowly escapes death. Then as a last desperate venture he assembles the entire family and re-enacts the seance.

It is in the climax that Chan undoes the diabolic cunning of the murderer, will be presented at First Methodist Church, South, Monday, February 3rd at two programs—one at 7:15 p. m.—one at 9:00 p. m.

A SCENE FROM THE ABOVE PLAY

A FEW NOTABLE FACTS ABOUT THIS PASSION PLAY

This is a motion picture twenty-eight hundred feet in length; taking two hours to present, and shows the "LIFE OF CHRIST" from the nativity to the ascension.

This entire motion picture was filmed in the "HOLY LAND AND EGYPT."

The entire program is accompanied by some of the world's greatest sacred music. This music was especially arranged for Professor Philip Ferraro, who was Professor of Music at the Naples Conservatory of Music.

This program has been presented in some of America's best churches and has won the profound admiration and approval of every audience that has seen it. After seeing it, some have pronounced it as even GREATER AND MORE ELABORATE THAN THE OPERA-AMERICAN STAGE PLAY.

THE SHEPHERD SCENE, CHRIST WALKING ON THE WATER and THE LAST SUPPER have been pronounced the most beautiful and the most impressive ever witnessed.

This Passion Play is non-sectarian in its presentation and is equally enjoyed by all, regardless of religious affiliations.

The ascension is so realistic that the audience, with transfixed awe in astonishment and reverence as the risen Lord disappears in the heavens. A small admission will be charged when this is presented at:

FLYERS SALUTE RAIL FLYER

In the days before aviation, the world flyer meant only one thing to the public—the speedy train that shuttled between the rail termini of the country. When the earthbound flyer, the "Florida Special," neared the end of its 500th trip between New York and Miami, three sportsmen flyers took to the air in their planes in an aerial salute to form this striking picture.

NEW SEMESTER TO OPEN MONDAY

Tech Officials Face Crowded
Conditions As Result
Of Fire

RUSTON, La., Feb. 1.—(Special)—As Louisiana Tech faces the opening of a new semester Monday, officials of the institution are sympathizing with the old lady who lived in a shoe and had so many children—but the college faculty members know what to do, while the old lady didn't. A classroom problem exists because of the burning of the administration building on January 6. The main hall, oldest and largest of the campus structures, included 19 classrooms in addition to numerous administrative offices. While architects already have drawn up blueprints for a building to replace the one destroyed by fire, the entire college will continue to be seriously handicapped until the new hall is erected.

The registrar's office has handled the task of removing departments formerly in the administration building, and places have been found for all classes to meet in other campus halls. As a result, no classes previously scheduled for the new semester will be cancelled because of lack of a meeting place, it has been announced. One or two classes, however, will not be offered because of the difficulty in securing textbooks destroyed by the fire.

Indicating the situation caused by the crowded condition, the registrar's office reported, for instance, that bookkeeping classes would share tables with students in the home economics department. The typewriting classes will be taught in the engineering building. Even the book-stack room in the basement of the library building is to be used as a makeshift classroom. Many of the college classes will meet in the teacher-training building, in which the elementary and high school pupils are taught. During the registration period continuing through Tuesday, all offices will be housed in the library building. The matriculation schedule is as follows: Seniors, 8-10 a.m. Monday; juniors, 10-12 a.m. Monday; sophomores, 1-5 p.m. Monday; and freshmen, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday.

BAPTIST GROUP PLANS ENCAMPMENT AT OLLA

JENA, La., Feb. 1.—(Special)—Directors of the northeast Louisiana Baptist encampment, composed of L. T. Hastings of Monroe, president; B. E. Zeagler of Olla, treasurer; E. M. Daffin, secretary; John L. Dodge, of Jonesboro; B. C. Land, Winnfield; R. L. Bridges, Good Pine; and John Foster, Pollock, held a meeting at the camp grounds in Olla and made arrangements for holding the encampment from July 7 through July 17. The directors made arrangements to reseat the tabernacle with new seats and to paint all buildings that are not now painted. A committee was appointed to draw up the program for this year and the program will be announced within a short time.

JUDGE SHELL DELAYS ACTION IN HOG THEFT CASE IN COURT HERE

Three men who entered pleas of guilty in district court here Saturday to a charge of stealing a hog must wait until February 13 for Judge J. T. Shell's action in their case. Despite the fact that Martin Max, Rudolph Mason and Andrew Petty pleaded guilty, Judge Shell said there was lack of evidence to prove their guilt conclusively and ordered that the case be heard further on regular misdemeanor day. Two of the defendants, who had been in jail, were released on their own recognizance. The other was already at liberty under bond. According to the story told by one of the men, the hog was believed to be his at the time he killed it. He said several of his hogs had wandered away a number of months ago, and that when some hogs appeared at his place, he thought one of them was his strayed hog and killed it. The other men were said merely to have helped in butchering the hog. A. H. Gerson was given a jail sentence of two months and a fine of $25 and costs or 30 additional days, with the two months suspended upon payment of fine and costs, on a charge of wilfully killing a hog. Sentence of Joe Renwick, Jr., which had formerly been fixed at 30 days in jail and a fine of $5 and costs or 30 additional days, with the three months suspended upon payment of fine and costs.

When first discovered and used as a beverage, tea cost from $30 to $50 a pound.

ARE REGISTERED IN THE U. S. A.

And out of this number on an average of 70 of the drivers of these cars will kill a person EVERY DAY. Just think of it! Seventy lives every 24 hours just as regular as clock work.

Probably you are thinking "Well, what of it?" or "What can I do about it."

Here's what you can do: Slow down—obey traffic and speed rules—keep your car in good mechanical condition and perhaps you can save at least ONE of those 70 lives. It's worth trying.

WHERE ITALIANS HAVE EXTENDED GAINS IN ETHIOPIA

Intensifying their drives in north and south to extend their lines and concentrate their gains, Italian forces in Ethiopia claim important advances in both theaters of conflict. In savage fighting, Marshal Pietro Badoglio reports, he has swept the Ethiopians from their strongholds west of Makale and Adigrat. He has set as his goal, before the rainy season halts operations, a line extending east and west through the town of Amba Alagi. Gen. Rodolfo Graziani's forces are reported to have pierced far into the territory around Filu and Noghehli and to be continuing their advance. The darkened areas on the map show the reported gains in both war zones.

SIMSBORO WELL DOWN 2,000 FEET

Operations Go Ahead In Lincoln Area Following Delay By Cold Weather

SIMSBORO, La., Feb. 1.—(Special) —Despite the cold spell which slowed drilling operations when gas valves froze and cut off the fuel supply, Gardner No. 1 well in section 10-17-4 west, Lincoln parish, which is an offset to the Fowler discovery well brought in last December and which is being drilled by Lide and Greer, is reported down below 2,000 feet.

A heavy rig is on location and the operators plan to drill through the gas sand which was encountered at 510 feet, in an effort to make an oil well from any of the oil sands in the Glenrose formation. The well, which blew in with an estimated flow of 15,000-20,000 cubic feet of highly saturated gas, is producing from the Hill sand, the first of the Glenrose series. Operators are confident that oil production will be encountered from 150 to 200 feet below the present gas horizon. Only 11 feet of pay sand was taken in the Fowler discovery well.

Other operations which are being closely checked by oil and gas operators in this area include the Texas-Seaboard McGee No. 1 in section 3-16-6 west in the Bear Creek district of Bienville parish. Observers of this test report that the well is checking lower than the Fowler well, but this is explained by geologists who declare that the Bear Creek structure is a separate geological area from that at Simsboro and that the anhydrites are not expected at the same depth as encountered in the discovery well. Formations were checked on the McGee well which was cored higher in the McGee well is 4,150 feet.

Ten inch casing was set on M. H. Marr et al's Davis Brothers No. 1 well in section 12-16-5 west, Bienville parish, at 2,400 feet and drilling operations have been temporarily suspended with the crew transferred to the Gardner test which operators are rushing to completion.

It was reported that the Arkansas-Louisiana Gas company is preparing to lay a pipeline from the Fowler well to the main line six miles north of the well. Representatives of the company are said to be in the field buying rights-of-way, but it was also reported that the company would defer the laying of the extension until the Gardner well is completed.

VOTE FOR NEWT V. MILLS FOR CONGRESS

With deep appreciation I thank my many friends for the splendid vote you gave me in the first primary. Using this means to say I will appreciate every voter's vote in the second primary, March 3rd. It will be impossible for me to see each of you. But the issues for which I solicit your vote is set forth in my platform. Gov. O. K. Allen called Harvey G. Fields, Dr. C. S. McDonald of Jonesboro, myself and others, January 27th and stated the state organization was behind me 100%. Mr. Harvey G. Fields, in the public press, January 28th declared himself against Mr. Wilson. All the state administration men have declared themselves for me. Dr. Long from Oklahoma City, Senator Huey P. Long's brother phoned me he would be in this district and make a series of addresses for me. I warn you these old moss back regulars will misrepresent and do anything to defeat me but I know we progressives will defeat them. Also, remember we have a few who claim to be for the state administration and at the same time will work for Wilson. WHY? Because they have been enjoying fat jobs and are going to fight me to the last ditch but I haven't said a word about job-holders. My language is plain but my mind, soul and heart is not colored against the needs of the masses. Read this and pass it to your friends.

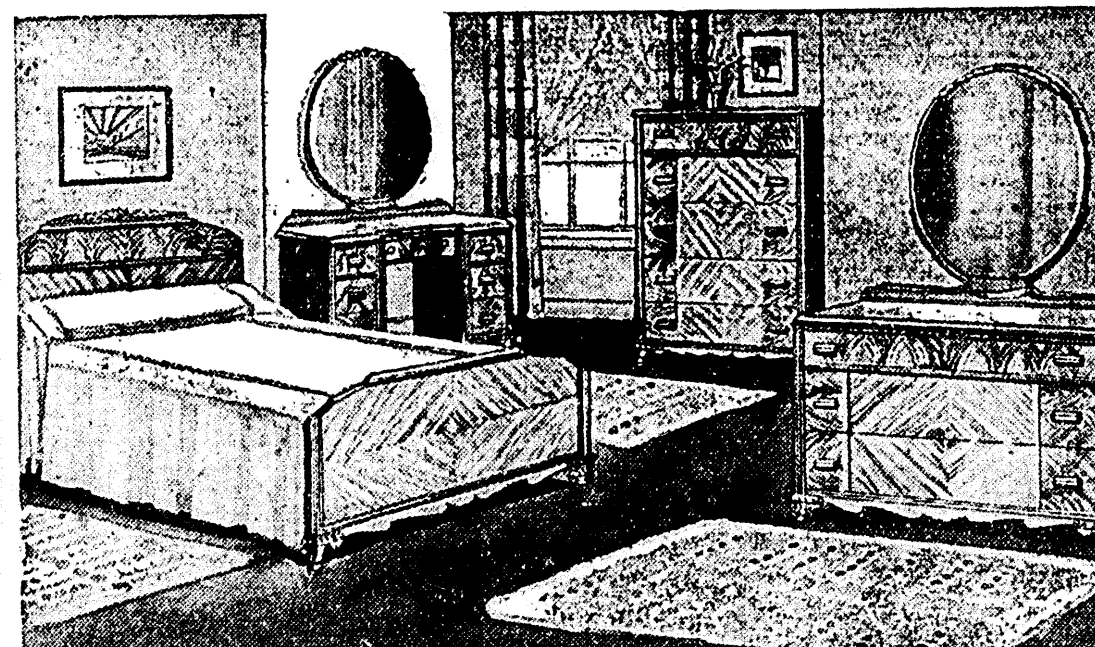

Be With a Winner.

Sincerely,

NEWT V. MILLS

Tarzan

by EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

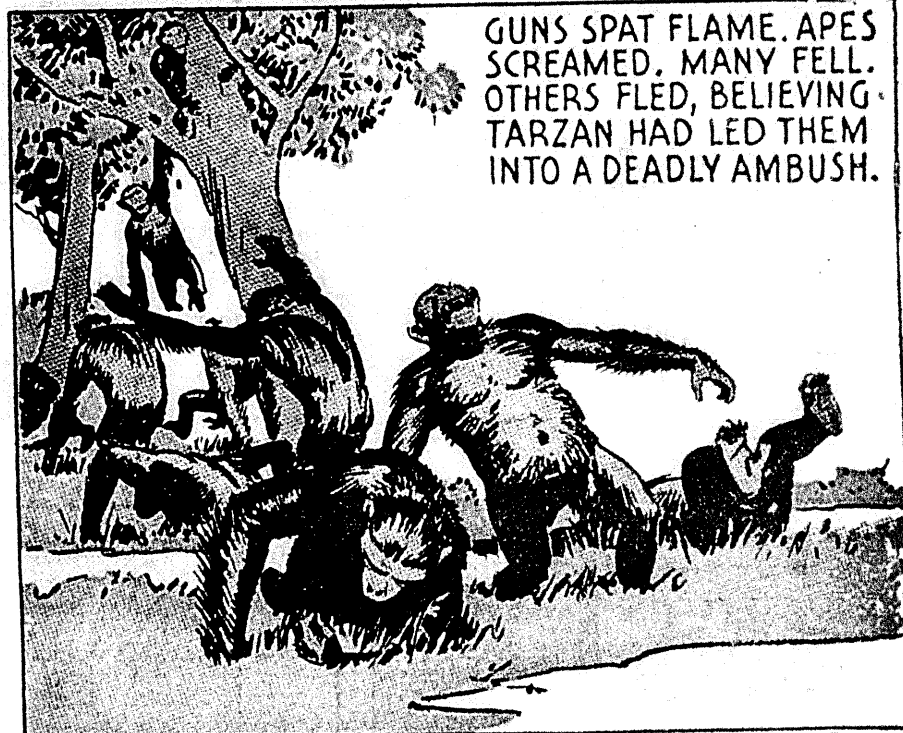

VILLAINY

TARZAN WAS TRAPPED! ON ONE SIDE WERE THE HOSTILE APES; ON THE OTHER, JIM GORREY'S SAVAGE BAND.

GORREY BEHELD THE FLYING APE-HORDE AND THOUGHT THEY WERE SWOOPING DOWN TO ATTACK. "FIRE!" HE COMMANDED.

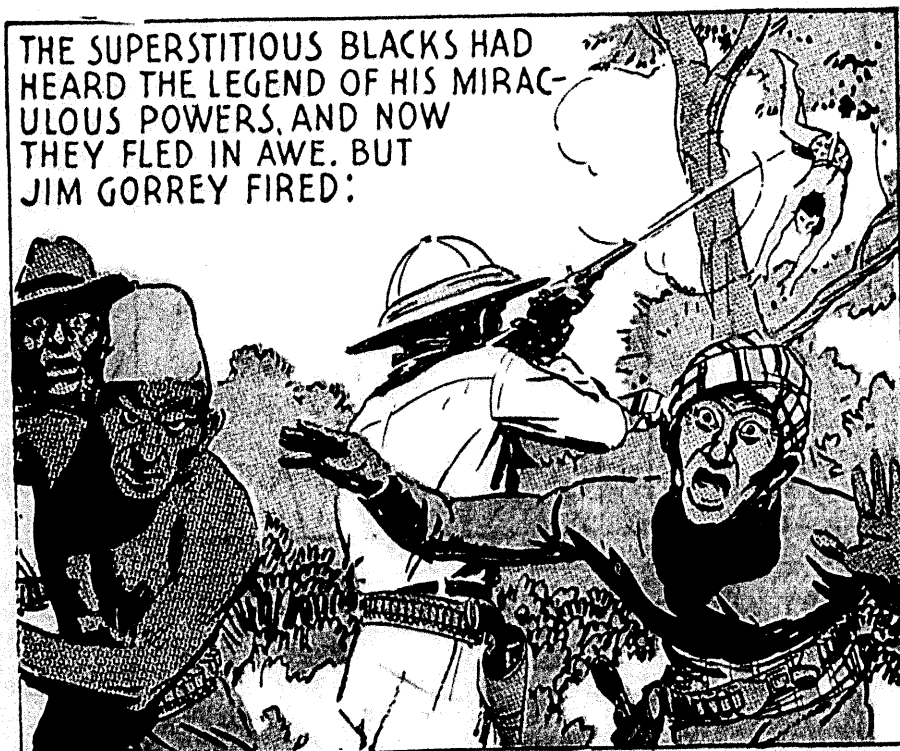

GUNS SPAT FLAME. APES SCREAMED. MANY FELL. OTHERS FLED, BELIEVING TARZAN HAD LED THEM INTO A DEADLY AMBUSH.

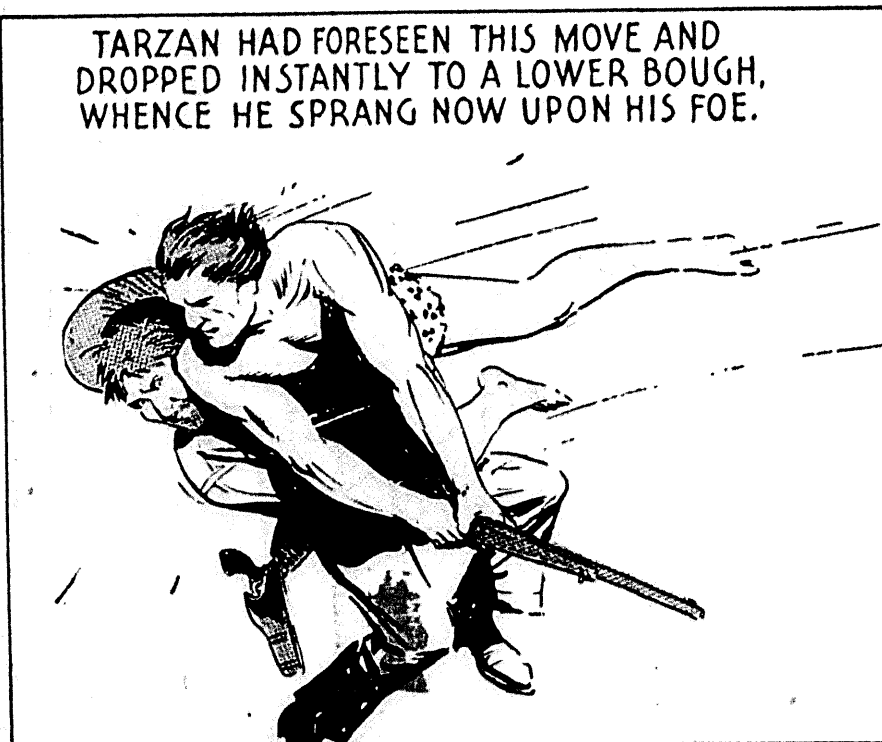

TARZAN TURNED TO FOLLOW, BUT THE SAVAGES SAW HIM. "HALT!" THEY CRIED. THE APE-MAN KNEW HE WAS AN EASY TARGET.

INSTANTLY HE STOPPED, RAISING HIS HAND MAJESTICALLY AND CALLED DOWN TO THE SAVAGES IN THEIR OWN DIALECT:

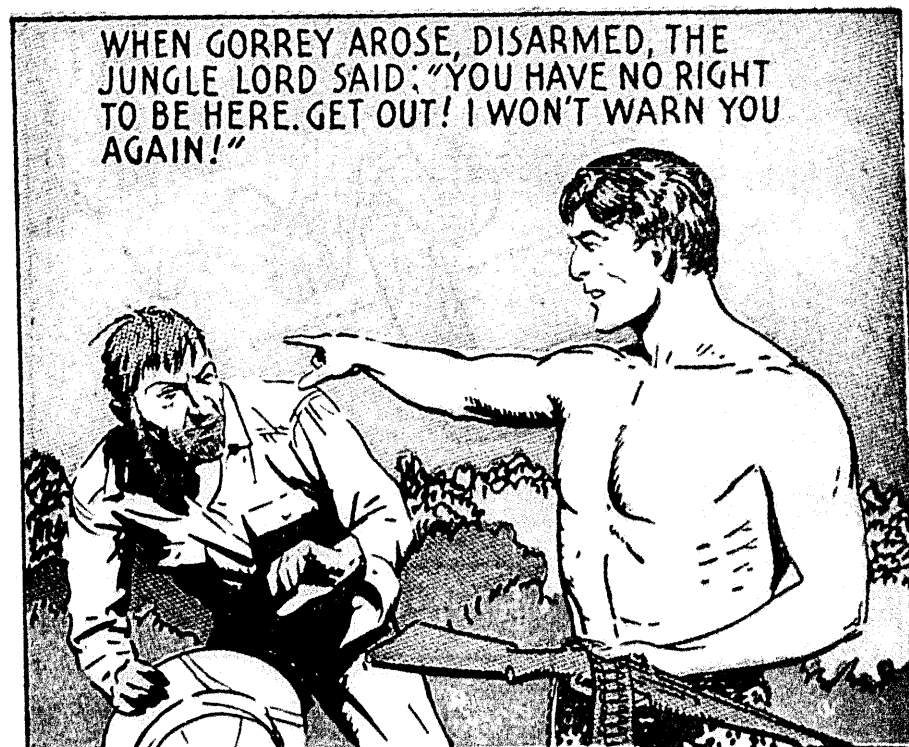

"I AM TARZAN! YOU MAY DESTROY MY BODY, BUT MY SPIRIT WILL LIVE ON TO HAUNT AND PLAGUE YOU!"

THE SUPERSTITIOUS BLACKS HAD HEARD THE LEGEND OF HIS MIRACULOUS POWERS, AND NOW THEY FLED IN AWE. BUT JIM GORREY FIRED:

TARZAN HAD FORESEEN THIS MOVE AND DROPPED INSTANTLY TO A LOWER BOUGH. WHENCE HE SPRANG NOW UPON HIS FOE.

WHEN GORREY AROSE, DISARMED, THE JUNGLE LORD SAID: "YOU HAVE NO RIGHT TO BE HERE. GET OUT! I WON'T WARN YOU AGAIN!"

SILENTLY GLADLY GORREY HURRIED AWAY. NEAR HIS CAMP HE MET HIS HALF-BREED HENCHMAN ZACKA AND SAID:

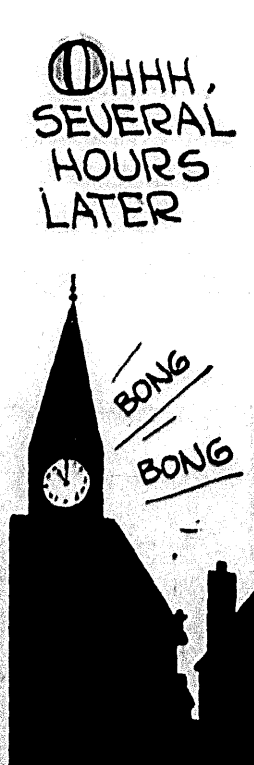

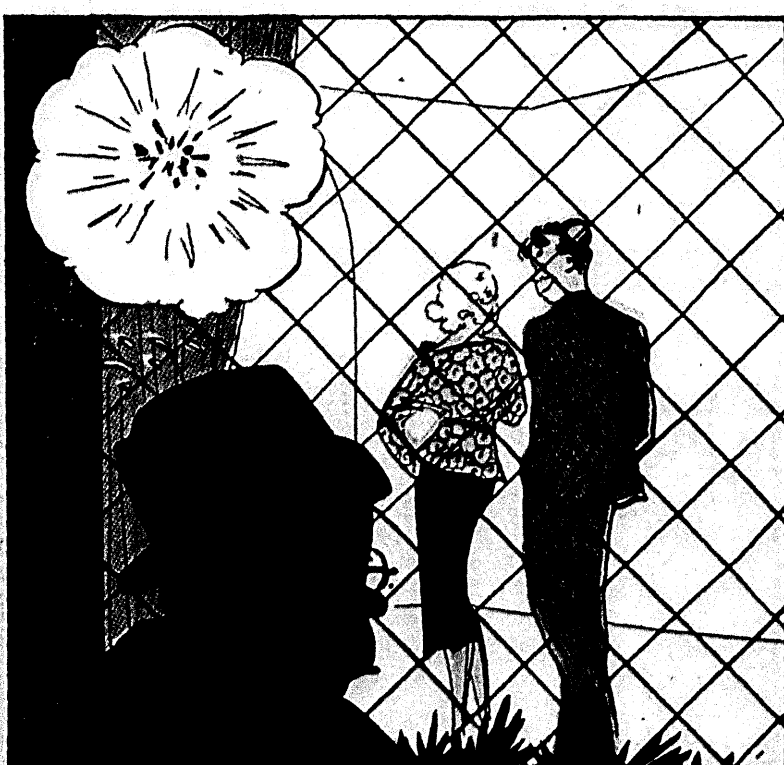

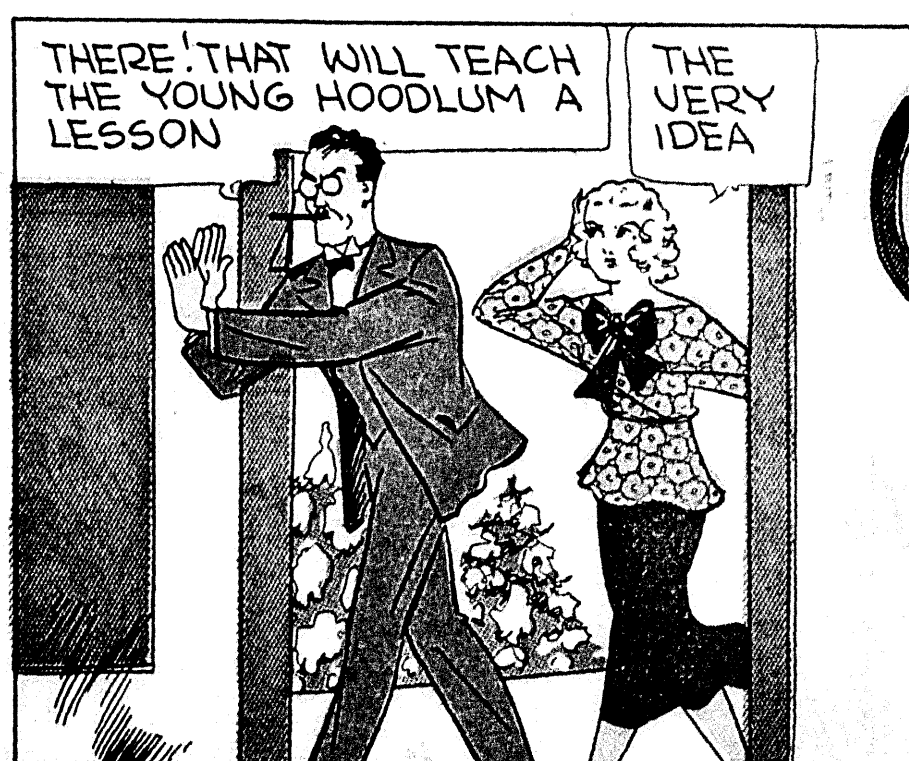

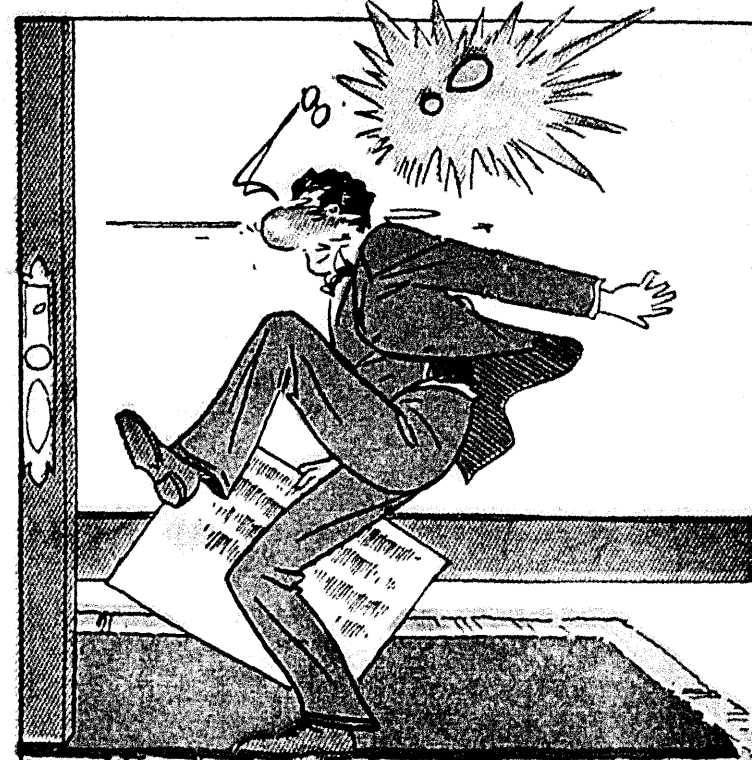

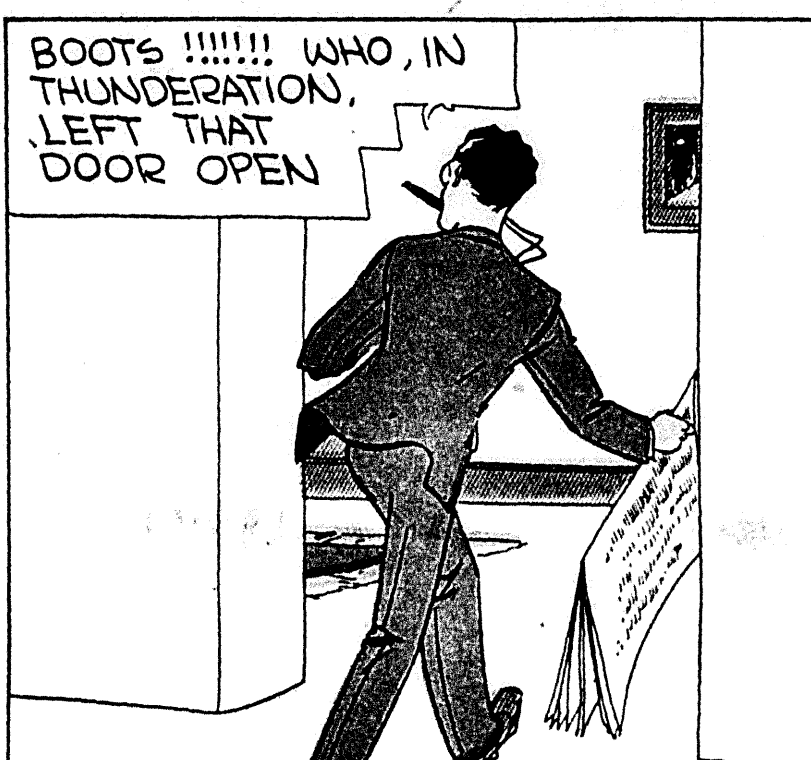

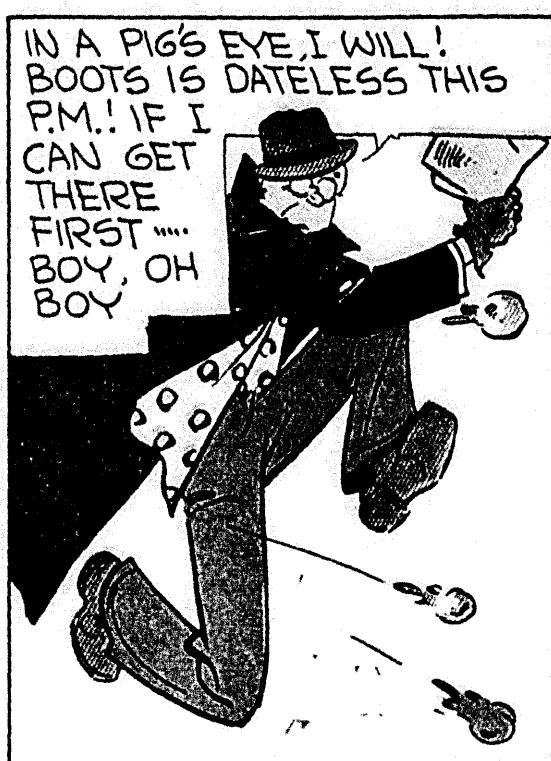

"THE WILD-MAN SUSPECTS US. HE'LL STOP THE SAFARI. WE MUST DITCH THIS OUTFIT AND GO IT ALONE. WE'LL FIND THE TREASURE!"

"TONIGHT," HE EXPLAINED, "WE'LL GRAB FLINT'S MONEY, THE MAPS, AND--THE GIRL. IF ANYBODY INTERFERES--SHOOT TO KILL!"

SHARKEY THE CHAMPION MET CARNERA AGAIN. IN THEIR PREVIOUS BATTLE SHARKEY HAD WON AN EASY, DECISIVE VICTORY. THIS TIME HOWEVER IT WAS FOR THE TITLE. THE GREAT CROWD AT EBBET'S FIELD SAW SHARKEY OUT-POINT THE PREAM FOR FIVE ROUNDS.

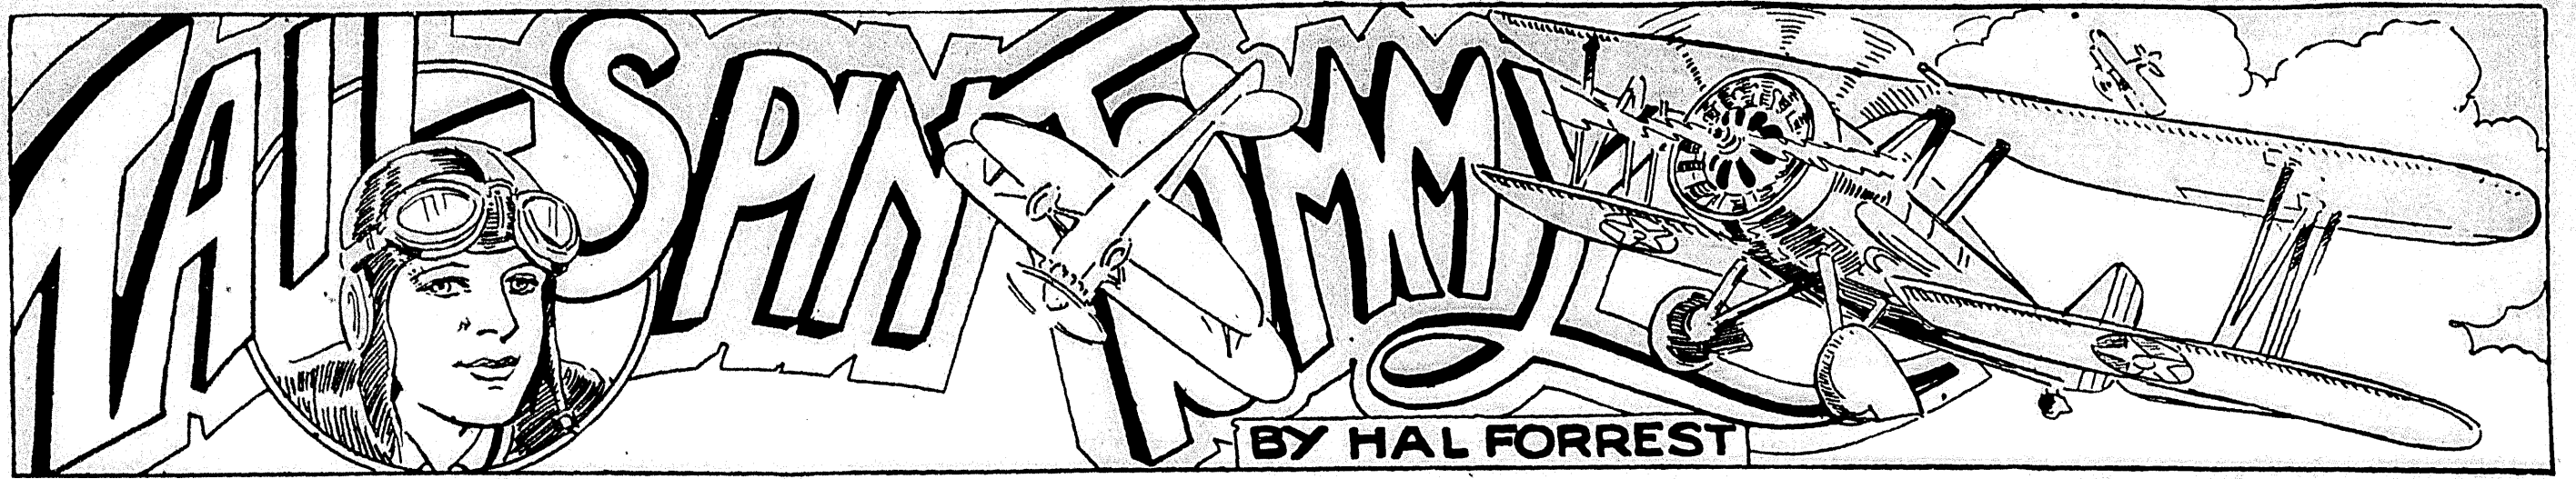

IN THE SIXTH, A GASP OF ASTONISHMENT WENT UP FROM THE CROWD AS SHARKEY WENT TO THE CANVAS FOR THE COUNT. CARNERA, WHO HAD ALWAYS BEEN REGARDED AS A CREAM PUFF PUNCHER, STOOD BEWILDERED, AS HE GAZED AT THE PROSTRATE FORM OF THE CHAMPION.

TOMMY SUCCEEDED IN PULLING BETTY-LOU UP ON A WING FROM HER PRECARIOUS POSITION ON THE UNDERCARRIAGE OF THE PLANE—BUT A NEW DANGER THREATENS—THE UNCONTROLLED SHIP, LOSING ALTITUDE FAST, IS ABOUT TO CRASH INTO A STONE BRIDGE—

BUT IF TOMMY ONLY KNEW WHAT WAS ON THE OTHER SIDE OF THAT BRIDGE—

LOOKS LIKE A SAND STORM COMIN'—GEE!—I'M THIRSTY—

EACH RADIO RANGE SIGNAL FIGURE-OF-EIGHT PATTERNS—CORRESPONDS TO TRANSMISSION FROM ONE ANTENNA AT THE RADIO RANGE BEACON AND HAS A DISTINCT CHARACTERISTIC SIGNAL. THE TWO PATTERNS OVERLAP AND SUPPLEMENT EACH OTHER FORMING A COMBINATION OF SIGNALS THAT MARK A "ON COURSE-OR EQUISIGNAL ZONES."
